Bombers Hit VC Stronghold; GIs In 'Heavy Contact'

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers struck at dawn Sunday at a Viet Cong base camp near Saigon while American airborne troops reported an eight-hour battle against a Communist force on South Vietnam's central coast.

In the ground fighting, a company of the helicopter-lifted U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division clashed Saturday with an enemy force of unknown size near coastal Bong Son, 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

U.S. headquarters described the action as a "heavy contact" and said the company called up reinforcements to build up to battalion size, or nearly 800 men.

Headquarters said the enemy force broke contact late Saturday night after eight hours of fighting. A spokesman said American casualties were light and Communist casualties were not known.

The B52 raid struck at a base camp and tunnel complex 33 miles east of Saigon. It was the 16th raid since Thursday in an intensified campaign by the long-range, heavy bombers.

In air action over North Vietnam on Saturday, U.S. headquarters said poor weather conditions persisted and limited the number of missions by American pilots. Most of the strikes centered on the southern part of North Vietnam and pilots used radar-controlled bombing tactics.

Carrier-based Navy pilots reported damaging 10 supply barges, destroying one bridge and damaging a pier as well as cutting up highways in numerous places. Air Force pilots attacked a convoy staging area 29 miles southeast of Dong Hoi and damaged highways near the Mu Gia Pass.

U.S. headquarters made no mention of any plane losses in Saturday's raids. Communist broadcasts claimed three U.S. planes were shot down including one unmanned drone plane.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said government popular force units killed 10 enemy soldiers in an assault on a Viet Cong base camp Saturday near coastal Tam Ky, 350 miles northeast of Saigon. Headquarters also said that other popular force — militia — units captured 11 Viet Cong in the Mekong delta 70 miles south of Saigon. There were no government casualties in the two actions, headquarters said.

The heavy fighting involving the 1st Cavalry came after it appeared that bloodied Communist battalions had ducked for cover following a week of the war's hardest fighting since last fall.

B52 Stratofortresses bombed four enemy holdings in a broad belt north of Saigon between the South China Sea and the Cambodian frontier. That rounded out 15 raids in three days by the eight-engine jets from Guam, which handled a record seven missions Thursday.

The hard-core Red outfits in the south may need to regroup. They are reported to have lost at least 1,080 men killed in sectors of the Mekong delta, the highlands and the central coast since the Tet truce ended last Sunday. Nobody here knows how many were wounded.

BLUE ANGELS PILOT KILLED IN CRASH

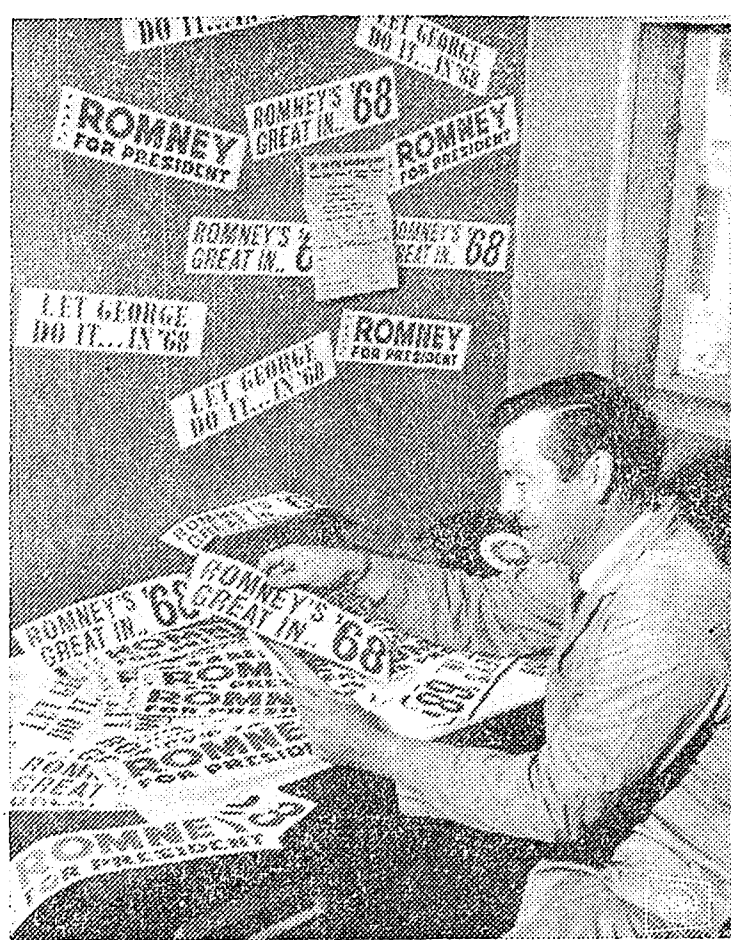

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — A plane crash on the desert floor Saturday claimed the life of the second fliedling member of the crack Blue Angels flying team in less than three weeks, the Navy announced.

Marine Capt. Ronald Polk Thomson, 28, of Beeville, Tex., died when his Navy F11A Grumman Tiger jet crashed 18 miles northwest of the naval air facility at El Centro.

Cause of the crash was undetermined.

Another rookie member of the team, Navy Lt. Frank Gallagher, 29, of Flushing, N.Y., was killed Feb. 1 when he crashed into a mountain during a practice flight.

Saturday's death was the fifth in the team's 21-year history.

IN CASE George Romney's presidential stock continues to move upward, he won't lack for bumper stickers. Robert Rood, a Lansing, Mich., printer, is stockpiling the persuaders that boom the Michigan governor, who has been often mentioned as a leading contender for the 1968 Republican nomination. Anti-Americanism Growing In S. Viet SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Anti-Americanism that nibbles into rapport between American servicemen and the South Vietnamese people has become a matter of concern among U.S. officials.

It is particularly evident in the cities. The attitude of some Vietnamese toward the massive military build-up resembles that of Londoners in 1943-44 who carped at GIs as "over-paid, over-sexed and over here."

There are more than 412,000 U.S. servicemen and about 9,000 American civilians in this country of 15 million people, which is little larger than Florida.

The problem was spotlighted this week in the U.S. military command newspaper, The Observer, in a story headlined "Ugly Americans ruin U.S.-Viet relations."

"A recent survey by one major command in Vietnam revealed that less than half of the Vietnamese people think Americans like and respect them," it said.

The major command to which The Observer referred was the 1st Corps area, the five northern provinces which include the U.S. Marine base at Da Nang. While lacking details, the story suggested a cooling of relations over the last 10 months.

Even then, according to a Marine survey at Da Nang last April, 42 per cent of the Vietnamese talked to believed Americans felt superior to them.

Another rookie member of the team, Navy Lt. Frank Gallagher, 29, of Flushing, N.Y., was killed Feb. 1 when he crashed into a mountain during a practice flight.

Saturday's death was the fifth in the team's 21-year history.

Marines listed the qualities

they liked about Vietnamese as friendly, brave, tough, religious, love for children, strong family ties and the ability to "take it."

Discontent about the American presence has increased along with growing inflation, deterioration of the cities and an increasing inclination of Vietnamese to regard the war principally as an American task.

Legislators Seek Full Review Activities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of Congress made new demands Saturday for an immediate, full-scale investigation of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency's involvement with private groups.

At the same time, congressional supporters of the undercover agency's operations defended its activities against the latest in a series of disclosures and criticism of the CIA's dealings with student groups, foundations and a labor union.

Among the latest developments:

— The CIA reportedly channeled to the American Newspaper Guild more than $1 million N.J., said, "The more disclosures there are, the more need there is for an immediate investigation by a joint committee of Congress."

Map Steps Needed To Reduce Crime

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's crime commission declared Saturday night that America can control lawlessness, but said it will take money, manpower, drastic reforms and "an unremitting national effort for social justice" in city slums.

"Controlling crime in America is an effort that will be slow and hard and costly," the 19-member panel reported. "But America can control crime if it will."

Reporting that the nation's crime rate may be three times as high as had been estimated, the commission proposed a vast outlay of federal funds to help states and cities overhaul their courts, police departments and prison systems — and plan new control and correction programs for the years ahead.

The commission did not say how costly that effort would be. And its chairman, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, said he could not estimate the sum it would take to enact the more than 200 recommendations the panel produced.

It urged a stepped-up effort to eliminate school segregation — even if that means sending suburban children to replace Negroes in troubled slum schools. If that came about, the commission said, the influence of middle-class parents would "result in rapid upgrading of poor schools to which their children had been sent."

At the same time, the commission proposed that police call boxes be lighted, marked and left open for emergency public use. It said there should be a single police telephone number in each city — and eventually, over the entire United States.

"America must translate its well-founded alarm about crime into social action that will prevent crime," the panel said.

It called on lawmen and all Americans to join in that effort — to eliminate slums and ghettos, improve education, provide jobs.

"We will not have dealt effectively with crime until we have alleviated the conditions that stimulate it," the commission reported.

Eighteen months of preparation and some $2 million went into the commission's blueprint for a war on crime. Its budget was $1.1 million. The rest of the expenditure represents cooperative research projects financed by the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance.

The panel — officially, the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice — was created by Johnson on July 26, 1965, with a mandate to seek daring, revolutionary ideas for a campaign against crime.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, is maintaining publicly that he has not made up his mind about the treaty. He has criticized it in the past but now is telling friends his doubts have been resolved and he will support it.

This probably means a substantial majority of the Senate's 34 Republicans will follow his lead and back the treaty. Their support is vital since a two-thirds majority of those voting is needed for ratification.

The treaty would lay down the guidelines under which administration officials say one additional U.S. soldier would be sent to Vietnam.

Romney, who is on a presidential exploratory trip, said that the administration has become locked in concerning the Vietnam conflict.

"Many of their options are gone," Romney said. "The Republican party has a chance for a fresh look at this. I don't intend to fritter away this opportunity with half-cocked observations."

It's for this reason, Romney said, that he plans to visit Vietnam and other nations later in the year.

"There isn't any question," Romney said, "that this conflict is affecting our relations all over the earth."

Romney also was critical of the role of the Central Intelligence Agency in subsidizing the National Student Association.

Asked what he thought about the CIA disclosures, Romney said, "I was shocked as I think most Americans were shocked."

But, Romney said, this is what one must expect "when you have leadership that is increasingly interested in using government funds instead of getting private support."

Romney landed in this Alaska city in the middle of a heavy snowstorm, but he heard some warm words from Gov. Walter Hickel of Alaska who met him in Seattle, Wash., and accompanied him on the flight north.

"The image of a person like Romney is one that can win in 1968," Hickel said. "He comes across as a person who is knowledgeable but not political. I think he'd make a great president."

Hickel has supported Richard M. Nixon in the past and last year Nixon campaigned for him. But Hickel had this observation on the man who was the Republican nominee in 1960 and is considered along with Romney as a front-runner for 1968: "As against Romney, Nixon would be regarded as a more political type."

Later, at a news conference, Hickel said of Alaska's 12 votes at the next GOP convention: "They're not for sale, but they could be convinced. I think Romney has an excellent chance."

Say Powell Will Take House Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican leadership, which played the key role in denying Adam Clayton Powell his house seat last month, was reported Saturday to have accepted the plan to seat Powell but censure him severely and dock some of his pay.

Republican leaders are understood to have agreed with the four Republicans on the select committee studying the Powell matter that this is the most severe yet practical punishment that can be dealt the Harlem Democrat.

Four of the five Democrats are also tending toward this view. Rep. Claude D. Pepper of Florida is keeping an open mind on possible alternatives, although he is understood to lean toward a penalty that includes removal of Powell from the House.

Everyone connected with the Powell investigation emphasizes that the situation could still change when the committee resumes deliberations Monday, but the outlines of a consensus have emerged.

Speck Trial Opens Tomorrow

Richard Speck

Judge Herbert Paschen

CHICAGO (AP) — The veil of silence that has covered the known details of eight nurses' murder for more than seven months may be lifted Monday.

The man indicted for the slayings will go on trial in the new courthouse in Peoria, Ill.

The girl who survived the massacre is expected to tell her story of what happened in the early hours of a hot July morning when her roommates were killed.

The evidence which led to the arrest of Richard Speck, 25, and the survivor's testimony may unravel the details of the slayings, but newsmen have been ordered to report only what happens in open court.

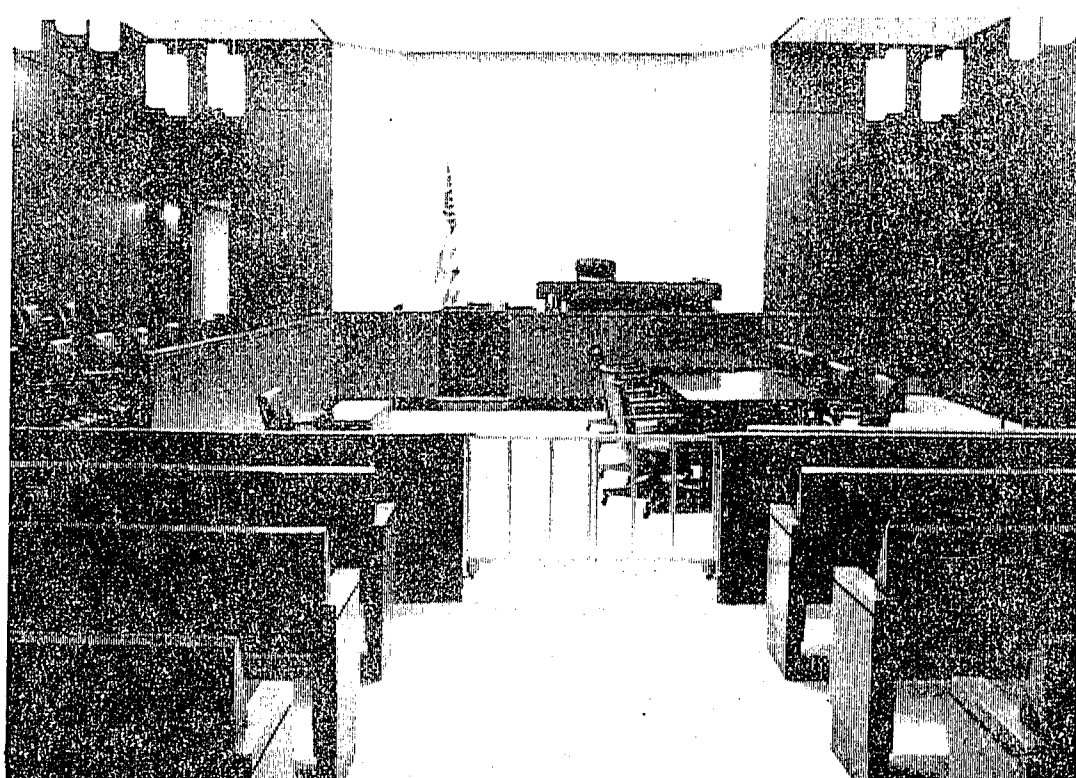

But a curtain of privacy has hidden much of what has been done or learned since shortly after the victims were slain in their living quarters on July 14, 1966.

Coroner's inquests have been free speech forums in Chicago for decades. But none has been held in this case.

Pre-trial motions have been heard in the Circuit court chambers of Judge Herbert C. Paschen, who will preside. He ordered attorneys not to discuss them with reporters.

The over-all aim, apparently, was to black out any statements that might influence potential jurors.

Gerald Getty, a public defender who represents Speck, got the trial transferred from Chicago on his contention that statements made by public officials early in the investigation made a fair trial impossible in the community where the massacre took place.

This is the nub of what is known: About 11 p.m. on July 13 a prowler jimmied a rear window on the lower floor of a two-story townhouse at 2319 E. 100th St., and removed a screen. Then he either climbed in or reached in and unlatched a door. Six nurses there at the time were retiring. They were Patricia Matusek, 20, of Chicago; Nina Schmalle, 24, of Wheaton, Ill.; Pamela Wilkening, 22, of Lansing, Ill.; and three girls

Tom Fischer Turns
Big Game Hunter, Bags Record Bear

BEARDSTOWN — Beardstownians will be interested but hardly surprised at the news that Tom Fischer is a big game hunter.

Growing up in Beardstown young Tom earned the reputation of being a rugged individualist, and it certainly is inconceivable that Tom would go to the Arctic Circle after a Polar bear and NOT get one.

A graduate of Beardstown high school where he starred as an athlete and won high scholastic honors consistently, Tom is a son of Armeta Fischer who still lives near here and the late Wm. Fischer.

He is now one of the outstanding physicians of this area, practicing in Hannibal, Mo.

His exploits as a big game hunter are recounted in the Culver-Stockton Concept, the 1966-67 winter edition, in a story by the school's director of public relations, David Steinbeck.

Dr. Tom, who recently headed the Culver-Stockton Alumni Association, is finishing a new home in Hannibal with a special room for his prize polar bear and other trophies.

It was last March when the Beardstown native bagged his 1300 pound polar bear. The huge white animal was taken in the Arctic Circle and measures 9 1/2 feet long, 44 inches around the neck, with a 10-foot pelt and 27 inch skull. It is a record kill according to Boone and Crockett of New York, who list official big game hunter records.

One Shot, One Bear
"Dr. Fischer took only a single bullet to fell the massive bruin" wrote Steinbeck, and the bear vies with its cousin, the brown bear, as the largest carnivorous animal in the hemisphere.

Attesting the expertness of the doctor-hunter in the use of his .300 Weatherby Magnum rifle, at 50 yards the fatally wounded beast shuffled a short distance and then collapsed.

"The only sign of a hit was a great burst of air that shot out from the lungs through the hole left by the 270-grain round-nosed Hornaday bullet," Steinbeck related.

It was a climax to a long trip to the Arctic plagued by poor visibility, bad weather and intense cold. On the day the bear was shot the temperature was minus 50 degrees and a 20 knot wind was registered.

Dr. Fischer and his guide were able to fly their prop-driven Super Cub plane on only 3 of the 8 days they were on the trip.

Steinbeck writes of the trip: Near Russia
"The pair had set up camp in the Eskimo village of Kotzebue on the coast of the Chukchi Sea between Nome and Point Barrow on the Arctic Ice Cap."

"As both Fischer and his experienced guide knew, the bears

Dr. Tom Fischer, daughter Andrea and Friend.

and went on to Missouri University for masters and doctor of medicine degrees. He interned in world-famed Bellevue in New York City and served residency in St. Luke's, becoming a general practitioner specializing in surgery. He has been a partner in Roller-Fischer Clinic in Hannibal for six years. It took a total of 15 years study before Fischer, now 36, began an illustrious career in Hannibal. He still lectures at Culver-Stockton and at Missouri University.

Receives National Award
Two years ago Dr. Fischer was designated as one of America's ten outstanding young men receiving many attendant honors in that connection also.

Being scheduled for daily surgery in two Hannibal hospitals, busy with lecturing and many outside activities, Dr. Fischer rarely gets back to his home town.

But he has utilized the Greater Beardstown Airport for fly-kirkville high school teacher ing trips here to see his mother were killed in the accident.

Boost Salaries Of Teachers In District 27

ARENZVILLE — The Board of School Dist. 27 met in regular session at the School office Feb. 15 with all members present. Also present were the superintendent, Leland Schnake; the unit secretary, Patricia Bischoff; and the school district's attorney, Bruce Thomson.

A revised salary schedule for the 1967-68 school year for teachers in Unit 27, as recommended by the salary committee, was adopted. The schedule calls for a $300 increase in starting salaries over the schedule now in effect. Beginning salaries for non-degree teachers is increased to $4900; for teachers with a bachelor's degree, $5500; and those with a master's degree, $5900. Top salaries in these categories are, respectively, $5675, $6500, and $7165. Also, under the new salary schedule, substitute teachers' pay is increased from $16 to $20 per day, beginning with the fall term.

A change in the salary schedule provisions allows $10 per semester hour for approved credit earned on campus, or off campus through extension, and $5 per semester hour for approved credit earned through correspondence.

Set Polling Places

Precincts and polling places for the regular election of school board members, to be held Saturday, April 8, were designated. Appointed as judges for the election were: Precinct No. 1, J. A. Shannon, Edward Hackman, Joanne Peck; Precinct No. 2, Ted Kershaw, Paul Ginder, Walter Williams; Precinct No. 3, Lloyd Anderson, Verne Smith, Amel McDaniel.

Increase Lunch Fee

Because of increased costs of goods and services which have caused the school lunch program to operate at a deficit this school year, the board decided that it is necessary to increase the price of student lunches from 30 to 35 cents, and the price of adult lunches from 40 to 45 cents, as of March 6. Permission for the increase was received from Ray Sudarth, director of the school lunch program and the Board officially approved the action, feeling that other school funds should not be used to support the lunch program.

The Board voted to offer contracts for the 1967-68 year to the present administrators: Leland Schnake, superintendent of Unit 27; James Brim, principal of Triopia High School and Chapin Grade School; Robert Brand, principal of Triopia Junior High School and Arenzville Grade School; and Robert McAllister, principal and teacher of grades five and six at Concord Grade School.

Special Ed District

A resolution was passed that Unit 27 become a participating member in the Joint Agreement of the Four Rivers Special Education District. Wilbur Tappenberg was elected as a member of the Four Rivers Council, with Lorenz Kleinschmidt as alternate, as required representatives of the local school district. Mr. Schnake will also be a member of the Council.

The low bid of the Hart Insurance Agency, Arenzville, was accepted for a treasurer's bond to cover the total amount of the School District Bond Issue.

Mr. Schnake gave a brief report of the visit of the state school inspection team to the school in the unit Feb. 14. A written report of the inspection will be received at a later date.

The date of the next regular meeting of the Board of Education was changed to Wednesday, March 15, at 1:30 p.m. The meeting was adjourned until 1 p.m. Wed., Feb. 22, when the board will meet with architects from Horn and Associates to continue with building plans.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Small radio receivers used to open garage doors sometimes cause harmful interference with airplane navigation. When the generating component and the antenna are not sufficiently separated, the receivers often send out signals. Nearby planes sometimes pick up the signals, mistake them for ground instructions and fly directly toward the garage door, says The World Almanac. The Federal Aviation Agency and the Federal Communication Commission are working to eliminate the interference.

Frank B. Norbury director of the coronary section and Dr. Ward Dunseth director of the medical-surgical section of the unit.

Dr. Frank Norbury made the following statement regarding this new department: "The need for specialized personnel and equipment for the treatment of patients suffering from acute coronary attacks and other forms of heart disease has been well-demonstrated by studies done at Holy Cross Hospital and elsewhere in the nation."

"Although coronary attacks comprise only 2% of the admissions to the hospital, 25% of the deaths in the hospital are due to this condition. The mortality from coronary attacks has not improved very much over the years, although diagnosis of them has improved greatly."

"It is now understood that in many such patients the immediate cause of death, especially sudden death, is an electrical abnormality in the heart muscle itself. In this situation, there is a change in the rhythm or in the conduction in the heart which, if detected and treated promptly, is often reversible."

"Other hospitals which have established coronary care units have learned that the mortality from the disease can be cut in half by methods which permit rapid identification and treatment of these abnormalities in the rhythm and conduction in the heart."

Holy Cross Hospital is planning to install electronic equipment which will permit constant monitoring of the heart beat and the electrical impulses in the heart. This equipment is similar to what had been successfully used by NASA for monitoring the astronauts in the space program. Physicians and nurses will then be able to immediately detect these abnormalities and institute prompt treatment.

"The opening of the Intensive Care Unit at Holy Cross Hospital will complement the other units of the hospital," states Dr. Ward Dunseth. "This unit will provide special nursing care on a 24-hour basis. The latest advances in medical techniques and treatment can be provided for the seriously ill or critically ill medical and surgical patients, such as a patient who has sustained multiple and extensive injuries in an auto accident, or a patient who has generalized peritonitis."

"This unit will provide for the patients of Holy Cross Hospital the best medical care possible today. Not all patients will need to be cared for in the Intensive Care Unit. Children will remain in the Pediatric area, which is adjacent to the Intensive Care Unit. Infectious diseases and incurable disorders will not be treated in this special unit."

Dr. Thomas W. Auner, president of the medical staff, commented: "The progress of medicine in Jacksonville is illustrated by the establishment of a central area for the care of very sick patients. Here these patients can be watched with extreme care, skill and diligence twenty-four hours a day. It is expected that many lives will be saved and much suffering avoided."

The unit is ready for acceptance by the community, by the attending doctors, and the anxious members of families, and by the one person most concerned — the patient.

The people of this community are encouraged to accept the invitation of the Sisters of the Holy Cross to tour the unit, to be informed of the policies governing its operation, to see the facilities and equipment which will complement it, and to learn something of the method of its operation. It will take some time to appreciate the full significance of this service, but its immediate value should be apparent.

It is the sincere hope of the hospital administration that many persons in future years may attribute the prevention of fatalities to the care received in this unit.

Set Driving Rodeo Competition Feb. 26 At Lincoln Square

Amvets Post 100 of Jacksonville will sponsor a "Driving Rodeo" Sunday, February 26, at 2 p.m. in Lincoln Square Shopping Center parking lot.

The rodeo is open to students taking driver education instruction during the current school year.

One student from each school will be selected by their instructor to represent the school. Jacksonville and surrounding area schools are invited to submit a contestant.

Dodge division of Chrysler Motor Company is the national co-sponsor of the program. Locally, Lukeman Motor Co. will provide a new auto for the participants to drive through the course and trophies will be awarded to local winners. The top winner, based on skill, accuracy and time through the obstacle course will advance to the state contest for a chance to participate in the national finals in Chicago where the top prize is a 1967 Dodge and a $500 scholarship or two $1,000 scholarships.

Prospective participants and driver education officials are invited to secure further information from Amvets Post 100 in Jacksonville or John Beadles, chairman of the project.

The first regular meeting of the month of Amvets Post 100 was held last Tuesday with Commander Clifford Upchurch presiding. After the meeting was opened, seven new members were accepted into membership: Kenneth Dixon, Jim Dyer, Mike B. Hare, Donald E. Robson, Howard "Arhouwenberg," William F. Watkins and George E. Jones. In addition, several renewal memberships were received.

Adjutant Lewis Sims read the annual report from the Jacksonville Area Industrial Corporation of which Amvets Post 100 is a shareholder.

Mervin Poole, junior vice commander, announced a steak and fish fry smoker would be held on Friday, Feb. 24. The post voted to enter two teams in the Amvets state bowling tournament to be held in Harwood Heights on March 11 and 12 and March 18 and 19. Jacksonville has been selected as the host city for the 1968 state bowling tournament. The meeting ended with a closing prayer by the chaplain with the members standing in a moment of silence.

Following the business meeting a social hour was spent jointly with the Auxiliary with refreshments being served. The next regular meeting of the Post will be February 28th.

Jamaica—the rich hermits have built homes that run up to $450-000, on land up to $50,000 an acre, just to tan in privacy a few weeks a year.

They hire special guards.
They fly in private jets. They come first for the December holidays, then eight weeks later for that envied status symbol, the February tan.

They come from Paris, London, Montreal, New York and Rome. They come from social registers, divorce courts, nobility and wealth.

They come to be hypnotized by the pounding surf, by the haunting lyrics of the calypso.
Some come to lose their troubles in planter's punch and to bronze their bodies in the tropical sun.

The rich hermits cluster together behind signs which read
"PRIVATE" and guards who wear helmets. They pay up to $1,000 a season to belong to clubs which make it their job to keep people out.

In Antigua, the hermit is called a "Reefers" and he lives at Mill Reef Club.

Mill Reef is an Americanowned millionaire's retreat covering nearly 1,000 acres on this easterly Caribbean island. There are some 50 homes—minimum price $60,000.

The entrance is a bumpy dirt road guarded by natives in white. An old sugar mill stands behind the gate. Olive trees grow out of the rocks.

Membership in Mill Reef is gained only through active members. One can be a guest there only once, unless he buys stock.

The jumbled complex includes the rambling stone mansion of the Paul Mellons, a tiered cliff-side castle which has its own overseer and rooms for a dozen guests. Jacqueline Kennedy has stayed there twice.

Mrs. Mellon, called Bunny, is an attractive, publicity-shy woman with a penchant for the color blue. Her staff at Mill Reef wears blue livery. Pillow-cases, sheets and even the family jet are blue.

Mrs. Kennedy spent most of two weeks there this winter, swimming in Half Moon Bay, below the mansion, tanning by the Mellon pool, taking unnoticed shopping excursions into town, and dining with friends inside the complex.

The rich hermit is not bothered by the island natives.
The hermit is "boss man." More likely, it is the society set itself who intrude upon one another.

Former Secretary of State
Dean Acheson, poet Archibald McLeish and the Macy department store family also have homes here. One can play golf, tennis, swim, sail and entertain unobserved. Servants live in Islanders—mostly poor cane cutters—rarely see Reefers outside of the complex.

Most food and liquor is flown in by private jet. There are no telephones, except a primitive microphone hook-up for relaying messages to the downtown office, an hour away. Newspapers arrive days late.

The Antigua government is adamant in its protection of Reefers.

"We insist on privacy," said Premier-elect Vere Bird. "When these people come to Antigua, they want to be let alone. It's a government responsibility to see that they are."

In Barbados, the rich hermit lives along Sandy Lane on the Caribbean, only 200 miles or 40 air minutes south of Antigua. It is the easternmost island in the Caribbean, only 200 miles from Venezuela. It is remote—just what the hermit likes.

"Other islands are getting too public," says Marian Javits, wife of New York Sen. Jacob Javits. "We came here to get away, to be left alone."

Claudette Colbert entertained singer Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow at her mansion in January and made it plain they were not to be bothered.

"This is a private visit during which he hopes to be able to get the absolute privacy and quiet which has eluded him everywhere else in the world," she said. "I have assured him his wishes will be respected."

Guards were added assurance.
From Barbados, the trail of money swings northwest 2,000 miles across the Caribbean, to Jamaica. One bypasses Puerto Rico. The jet set considers it passé, strictly for tourists and politicians. The hermits call San Juan "East Miami Beach."

For a boating hermit, St.
Thomas in the Virgin Islands offers a brief stopover. At $2,000 a week, one can have wall-to-wall carpeting, caviar and bone china aboard a chartered yacht.

"Most of our customers are everyday people, though," says skipper Frank Burke. "The real rich guys own their own boats."

In Jamaica, the rich hermit lives at Round Hill and Tryall, both near Montego Bay on the sunny, northern beach strip of the island.

Jamaica is different from the aristocratic Antigua and remote Barbados. Jamaica swings, dances, moves day and night.
Instead of sprawling out on a virgin beach alone, one is more apt to attend a beach party.

The hermits who seek Jamaica still seek privacy, but of a different kind. The privacy of parties, the privacy of taking shoes off with friends and raising a ruckus behind closed doors. They do.

Religion In The News

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A two-inch silver cross swings from her neck. She snaps her fingers rhythmically from side to side, taps her heel and the guitar and maracas take up the beat. Then Sister Miriam Therese (Winter) and her cohorts give forth with zestful song.

"Singing is a part of healing," says the pert, young troubadour of Catholicism's Medical Missionaries. She not only has combined music with the physician's art, but the Bible with modern melody.

"It's tonic to the spirit,"
Her kind of catchy, spontaneous music also is part of the changing ways of Christian worship, which now occasionally throbs with strummed guitar, percussion instruments and contemporary folk lyrics of praise and prayer.

To be vital, sacred music must speak "in the idioms of its own time," says the Rev. C.J.
McNaspy, a Jesuit expert on the subject.

And that is a keynote of the songs of Sister Miriam, whose verve and original compositions have stirred a virtual vocal renaissance in her worldwide medical order. They also have caught on widely with the public.

An initial recording, "Joy Is Like the Rain," has sold about 50,000 in this country, and has been issued in Canada, the British Commonwealth and Europe.

Another album, titled "I Know the Secret," will be out soon.

"The whole thing has been a surprise to me," Sister Miriam says. She often takes the ideas for her lyrics from Biblical episodes and parables — and the snappy music from her mood.

"You could write a million songs about the Scriptures and never come to an end," she says. "It's amazing."

It's also rather amazing how she and her group of nuns can take universal, often profound themes, and make them pulsate with humor, wisdom, human frailty and hope — all in a fresh, free style of bounce and confidence.

"Feet were tapping and hearts a'warming all over Carnegie Hall," wrote music critic William Bender, of the New York World Journal Tribune, after a concert there by Sister Miriam's group and several other Catholic, Protestant and Jewish ensembles.

The presentation offered a sampling of the modish type of music now penetrating the sanctuary — and it included a generous infusion of ordinarily unchurchly sounds — drums, guitars, cymbals, bass viol, tim-brels and a French horn.

"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord," says the Psalms.
"Praise Him with the sound of trumpet — with psaltery and harp — with timbrel and dance — with stringed instruments and organs. Praise Him upon

Y's Informal Ed Classes To Start In Spring

Enrollment in the classes will be will be offered.

the loud cymbals." Recently, a Vatican commission warned against strictly profane music and certain other experimental church usages, citing European instances. Several American dioceses have stated the admonition did not apply to authorized "home masses" in this country, and the use of guitars in special liturgies.

Such services have become increasingly common among youths and at campus chapels.
They also have been used occasionally in parish congregations, Protestant and Catholic, enlisting folk and jazz styles in worship.

In the past generation, Father McNaspy says, "It seems that religious music was expected to be bland, dull and deliberately old-fashioned, as if by sounding ancient it might seem more reverent."

However, he says, the supposed sharp distinction between sacred and secular music is "more a myth than anything else."

"Why, as Luther wondered, should the devil have all the good tunes?" He asked. "If the tune is good, regardless of its style or source, it can be used by God's people. Further, with some allowances, it can be used for God's worship."

Sister Miriam, who teaches music and liturgics at her order's center on the outskirts of Philadelphia, has written a folksong "Mass of a Pilgrim People" for worship services, but most of her sprightly folk songs weren't written at all.

"They just happened," she says — sometimes alone as she plucked her guitar in thought, or else as she and other nuns sat around on the floor, improving verses and tunes, often with a cello or a prairie beat.

Sister Miriam, from Morris Plains, N.J., says contemporary music can "help break down the wall between life and religion" for people. "It's all one thing.
God is not just in church. He's not in one place. He's out here with you."

That's also the thesis of various other advocates and creators of new strains of church music, such as Lutheran John Ylvisaker, of Minneapolis; Jesuit Paul Quinlan, of Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass.
In Mattituck, N.Y., the Rev.
Robert Sullivan, a Presbyterian, uses a guitar for special services. So does the Rev. Frank Moore, a Catholic hospital chaplain in St. Louis, Mo.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market cooled off considerably last week from its red-hot upward drive of January. Prices were irregular and trading fell off.

The verdict of popular market averages conflicted but more stocks rose than fell. Just as significant as these statistics, however, was the fact that trading was the slowest of the new year. Volume for the week totaled 44,877,940 shares, even less than last week's 46,151,000. A blizzard-shortened session cut down the total.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week took a moderate loss of 4.39 at 350.84. This put the closely watched barometer well below an intraday recovery high of about 366 reached the previous week. The area between 360 and 365 in the Dow industrials had been heralded as a resistance area where much stock would be for sale.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks emerged with a gain of 3 at 317.1.

Of 1,385 issues traded, 779 advanced this week and 672 declined. The trading week began Monday in a session dulled by semi-holiday conditions caused by Wall Street's observance of Lincoln's birthday, which was Sunday. Wall Street was confused by various reports about possible Vietnam peace talks.

The market advanced moderately Tuesday. Steels set the pace. They were helped by a sharp rebound in steel production as well as by favorable comment in certain investment quarters. It dipped Wednesday.

The week saw low-priced stocks reach a kind of crescendo of popularity—a visible sign of "market deterioration," in the words of several analysts—and then peak out. Among them, despite profit taking, Lionel emerged with a substantial gain of 1 1/4 at 43 1/2.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were: Thiokol, up 1 1/4 at 23 on 701,500 shares; Sperry Rand, up 2 1/2 at 32 1/2; American Photocopy, up 1/2 at 8 1/2; Gulf & Western Industries, up 5/8 at 54; and Ampex, off 1/2 at 30.

Bond prices declined sharply last week. Unsold portions of new issues, a rise in business spending estimates and talk about interest rates leveling off were cited as causing the drop.

from the Philippines — Valentina Pasion, Merilita Gargullo, and Corazon Amurao, all 23.

The killer, armed with a knife and revolver, herded them into a rear bedroom. He bound their hands with strips of bedsheet. Then he led them out, one at a time.

Three nurses came into the townhouse later — Gloria Davy, 22, of Dyer, Ind., at 11:20 p.m.; and Suzanne Farris, 21, and Mary Ann Jordan, 20, both of Chicago, at 12:20 a.m.

Miss Amurao saved her life by rolling under a bunk. She lay there, unnoticed, through a night of terror.

She ventured out about 6 a.m. She saw the bodies. She went into a front bedroom, pushed open a window screen, crawled out on a ledge and screamed: "They are all dead! Oh, God I'm the only one alive!"

Miss Davey's body was found on a sofa on the first floor. Seven of the girls, stabbed or strangled, were found in a hallway, bathroom or bedrooms on the second floor.

Miss Amurao has received offers for rights to her story. A source most likely to know said she accepted none. Miss Amurao has been in seclusion. Presumably, she will be a star witness at the trial in Peoria, 150 miles southwest of the scene of the crime.

The slayings sent a wave of shock around the world. Early in the investigation, detectives turned their attention to a hiring hall for seamen across the street from the townhouse. Men dropped in occasionally looking for work. Among them was Speck, a rover who had worked on ore boats.

Police began to look for Speck. He was arrested early in the morning of Sunday July 17 in the Cook County Hospital. He had been taken there after he cut his left arm in a lopsided. Shortly thereafter, work on the case went behind the curtain of secrecy.

Fear Labor Will Suffer From Split

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders expressed fear Saturday that the swiftly growing alienation of Walter P. Reuther's Auto Workers Union would jeopardize many of organized labor's nationwide goals.

Top aides of AFL-CIO President George Meany viewed the Auto Workers' withdrawal from the federation's Chicago branch as another step toward a probable total break with the giant labor federation.

AFL-CIO officials are worried that their new national program to enforce the recent federal minimum wage hike and to area between 360 and 365 in the Dow industrials had been heralded as a resistance area where much stock would be for sale.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks emerged with a gain of 3 at 317.1.

Credit Anti-Mao Forces With Partial Victory

TOKYO (AP) — Foes of Mao Tse-tung were reported Saturday to have scored partial victories in battles at key points ranging from the frozen Mongolian frontier to the Himalayan border in western China.

Radio Moscow, in a Japanese-language broadcast, said anti-Mao forces, after a series of bloody clashes, had seized "nearly full control" of Inner Mongolia, a strategic autonomous region in Red China's northeast.

Other reports told of gains by opponents of Mao's great cultural revolution — or purge — in Hupeh, Shantung and Szechwan Provinces and trouble for the Maoists in the Port Arthur-Dairen area of Manchuria.

But in Darjeeling, India, Tibetan exiles monitoring Radio Lhasa said there were indications that pro-Mao forces were moving successfully against anti-Maoists in an effort to regain control of Tibet.

In Peking, a public statement by Foreign Minister Chen Yi gave no hint of any slackening in Mao's purge.

"This is a great creative undertaking of immense international significance aimed at preventing the emergence of revisionism and capitalist restoration in our country," he was quoted as saying.

He said it "constitutes a fatal blow to imperialism and modern revisionism" — terms Red China's leaders use to refer to the United States and the Soviet Union.

Chen spoke at a reception honoring the 17th anniversary of Nepal's independence. The statement was broadcast by the New China News Agency.

The struggle between insurance industry spokesmen and proponents of an industry investigation is scheduled to resume in the Illinois House Executive Committee.

Lobbyists for the insurance companies opposed the investigation as one likely to hurt their public image. They said they had 29 bills pending to carry out their own reforms.

DON'T TINKER WITH SUCCESS

It seems that no matter how popular or successful a sport gets to be, someone is always at the door knocking with a new twist that would make it even better. Or at least they think so.

No one will deny professional football has reached heights recently that few thought possible several years ago. Sellouts are the rule rather than the exception and there has even been some talk of the pro grid game being more of a national pastime than baseball.

NOW, AS if the league owners and players don't have enough ideas, writers are getting into the act. Not that we think it will ever be seriously considered, but SPORT magazine has come out with what it feels is the solution to keeping the first-string pro quarterback off the injury list.

"We propose that the offense be allowed to play a 12th man," say the editors of SPORT. "He would be a fifth back whose sole job would be to protect the quarterback. He would not be allowed to carry the ball, he would not be eligible to receive passes, he would not be able to block for the running backs, he would not even be allowed to cross the line of scrimmage.

"HIS ONLY duty would be to protect the quarterback. He would pick up blitzers, stay with the quarterback if the quarterback rolled out or scrambled, block up to the line of scrimmage on a quarterback running play. He would be a specialist to end all specialists — an exclusive bodyguard to the most valuable piece of brick-a-brack in pro football."

Why this special attention for the quarterback? "The quarterback is of paramount importance in the spectacle of professional football," they say. "The quarterback is the one player every fan knows, the one player every fan watches, the one player every fan honors, or demeans, depending upon his performance. He is the person who has the power to make, or break, his team. He is the indispensable man of most pro football teams."

SOUNDS REASONABLE, doesn't it? True, the casualty list of first-string quarterbacks in recent seasons has been considerable (some Cardinals fans might still argue that this case cost their boys the title last fall). When a crew of 250-plus pound linemen get a handful of quarterback, anything can happen.

But, is something like this really necessary? Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr recently commented that he would hate to see any special rules set up to protect the quarterbacks. "It would detract from the game," commented Starr, "Mr. Quarterback" right now.

IF YOU DO this, why not keep everyone away from the basketball center and protect the hockey wing, the baseball pitcher? One of the great drawing cards of any sport, whether it be football or auto racing, is the chance factor. An injury or accident or slip by the better team or player, gives the underdog the chance. Very little in sports is cut and dried, and rightly so.

We don't mean by this that injuries and accidents are good for any game. No one likes to see someone hurt, and no one pulls for another to be injured. Again, it's one of the unknowns that keep the losers coming back for more and the fans piling in.

HERE 'N' THERE: Marion's all-state guard Greg Storrack, 6-2, smashed five conference and school records last week by scoring 70 points in a double overtime loss to West Frankfort, 88-86. A senior, Storrack hit on 28 field goals and 14 free throws, running to 439 points his total in 12 conference games, a 36.5 average. We understand University of Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp was on hand for the game. Reckon he was impressed?

STILL WAITING for that first hole-in-one? Although they may seem next to impossible, they really aren't so rare. A record 15,493 aces were cleared by the GOLF DIGEST clearing house last year, 14,060 by men and 1,433 by women. The highest previous total was 14,441 in 1965.

Illini Nip Purdue In Final :02, 94-92

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — at 1:03 after tallying 23 points, Dave Scholz took a pass from Jim Dawson and scored a layup. Purdue added 16. Bill Keller and Gilliam each had 15 and Ebersworth led Purdue with 24 points.

The score was tied seven times with the lead shifting seven times before Bob Johnson put Illinois ahead to stay 79-76 with four minutes remaining.

Never more than four points separated the teams from then on and finally, with 16 seconds to go, Purdue tied it 92-90. Henry Ebersworth shot from the keyhole. Then came Scholz' winning layup that made him high points man with 27. Teammate Jim Dawson added 25.

Before Ebersworth pulled Purdue into the tie, the Boilermakers lost three men on fouls — Roger Black, Herri Gilliam and Denny Brady, all key scorers. Brady, a reserve went out.

Blueboys Utilize 36 Charity Throws

By DAVE INGLES

Illinois College claimed a share of the Prairie College Conference crown and a possible NAIA tournament berth by whipping Rose Poly, 106-96, in a rough and tumble game at the Blueboy gym Saturday evening.

The victory puts IC in a tie for top slot in the PCC with Rose, as each have identical 6-2 loop records. Normally the PCC Champion is selected from District 20 (Illinois) as one of the four NAIA district tourney representatives.

A total of 52 personal fouls were whistled in the contest that saw six men leave with five injuries, including five Engineers and one Blueboy. IC, outscored by four baskets, converted 36 free throws to make up for the visitors to make up the goal deficit.

It was principally the charity line accuracy of Kevin Lawrence that kept the hosts ahead of the battling Engineers in the closing minutes. The 5-10 sophomore hit seven from the line in the final four minutes and added a layup bucket as IC maintained a five-to-ten point spread and kept the losers at bay.

IC Breaks Away The Blueboys broke away to a ten point spread midway through the first half, jumping from a slim 22-21 margin with 10:30 to go to a 31-21 edge two and a half minutes later as four men pumped in tallies.

Charley Martin, season high-point man for IC, led the Blueboy surge in the first period with 16 points including seven baskets, most from in-close on dead-eye passes from teammates. Lawrence and Paul Runkle each contributed ten to the IC cause for the period, Lawrence's coming on five goals.

Rose Poly continually hurt its own cause with turnovers, 13 in the first half, including many three-second lane violations, and five in the early part of the second stanza with repeated bad passes.

The winners could only snag one basket in the first three minutes after intermission, and Rose crept within one point, but could not gain the lead.

Clough Shot Sparks Blueboy forward Dick Clough, playing his last home game for IC, picked a good time to can his first field goal, with 13:15 to play and giving the Blue and White a 64-60 lead.

This basket, a short jump shot, seemed to ignite a spark in the Blueboys as they rattled off two more quick baskets by Pete Gallatin and jumped to an eight point spread.

Rose Poly would not give up, though, and chipped away at the advantage to trail by only five on a three point play by Tom Curay with 10:35 to play. A bucket each by Gallatin, Clough, Dan Runkle and cousin Paul Runkle boosted the hosts to an 81-70 lead two minutes later, and then the heavy whistling began to tell.

In the final six minutes, IC hit 20 free throws and only one basket as the five Engineers left the floor. Paul Runkle picked up his fifth foul also, with 3:12 to play, and Rose chopped the IC edge to five once more at 93-88, but the late Blueboy free throw barrage prevailed.

Hit 22 Each Lawrence and Martin topped game scoring honors with 22 points each, and three other Blueboys reached double figures. Paul Runkle had 17, Gallatin chipped in 16, and Clough notched 15 including a perfect 11-for-11 free throw performance.

The victory left Illinois with a 4-4 conference mark and Purdue with 3-5.

Chicago Surprises MacMurray, 76-56

CHICAGO — MacMurray managed to "better" their poor shooting mark of Friday night in a 59-point loss by shooting 26% from the floor in dropping a surprising 76-56 decision to the Chicago Maroons here Saturday night.

The Highlanders managed a frigid 21.2 rate in the first half, hitting on only seven of 33 tries from the floor, while the hosts were coming 15 of 30 in running up a 37-20 scoring edge.

In the second half the Clan managed to play almost even ball with U.C. but it was too little too late. Chicago, playing for the percentage shots as always, hit 47% for a game average of 49%, while Mac upped its effort to 35% for the second period.

One Highlander, freshman Denny Desmond, managed to score in double figures to lead the Clan with 15 points. Mac drops to an even 11-11 slate for the year with the loss, while the Maroons are now 8-6.

Mac Third In Wheaton Mat Tourney

WHEATON — Augustana college of Rock Island earned three firsts, two seconds and a single third place here Saturday night to win the ninth annual Wheaton Invitational Wrestling Meet.

The winners, perennial powers in the 17-entrant affair, totaled 78 points, while host Wheaton and MacMurray placed second and third respectively with 67 and 46. Duquesne and Marquette finished in a tie for fourth with close 45 point totals.

The defending champion Highlanders equaled Augustana's three title performance with wins by Ron Otto at 137, Gary Henning at 152 and heavyweight Bob Kellogg. The three entrants were the only Clansmen to reach Saturday's semifinal action, however, leaving Mac with no seconds, thirds or fourths.

Otto's win came over Cy Faulkner of Wheaton by an 8-1 decision. The sophomore strongman had earlier gained his berth with an 8-6 win over Jim End of Marquette.

Henning picked up the Clans' second individual title with an 11-2 win over Kittle of North Central in the semi-finals and a slim 1-0 count over Augustana's Bob Garman.

A referee's decision after an overtime period gave Kellogg the heavyweight crown, after a 2-1 edge over Glenn of Duquesne had put him into the finals.

Winners for Augustana were John Henning (145), Tim Dodge (160) and Fred Johnson (191). Buzz Hill at 123-pounds netted Wheaton's only championship.

Ed Jackson of North Central was named the outstanding wrestler of the two-day tournament.

Crimsons Manage 66-57 Win For 13th

By BUFORD GREEN

Clutch buckets by Duane Mounts and Bob Donovan at two crucial stages in the second half allowed Jacksonville to hold off Springfield Feitshans and count an unimpressive 66-57 non-conference victory, at the JHS Bowl Saturday night.

Looking considerably less sharp than in most games this season, Jacksonville had trouble making a lead stand up all through the game. Leading by nine in the first quarter, JHS saw its lead fall to one at half, and leading by 11 in the third frame saw its advantage fall to two points in the final stanza.

After Feitshans took the lead at 31-30 opening the second half, Mounts ripped off six points and Abe Brown two to run JHS to a 38-31 lead. Two buckets by reserve Donovan later in the period let the Crimsons take a 47-40 margin into the closing eight minutes.

Feitshans made another bid to open the fourth, riding Mike Crisp's hot shooting to get with 47-45. Again Mounts and Donovan hit quick buckets to check the tide.

Crisp again pulled Feitshans to within 55-51 with 2:41 showing, but Brown, Duane Hess, Donovan and Mounts all scored to run the difference to 62-51 with 1:17 showing.

Mediocre From Field Jacksonville managed only 37% from the field, virtually the same as Feitshans, and held a one-rebound edge on the visitors.

The Crimsons almost completely shut off Feitshans' Otto Stowe, 23 points per game, in the second half. Stowe hit 12 in the first but managed only a single bucket in the second.

The victory ups Jacksonville's season record to 13-8 with one game remaining and drops Feitshans to an identical slate.

The hosts started off in fine fashion, hitting four of their first five shots and racing to an 8-2 lead, with the scoring between Mounts, Brown and Rich Coble.

Stowe then hit three buckets to offset long-range bombs by Hess and Jacksonville led 19-11 after the initial eight minutes.

Stowe continued his potent scoring in the second period and got Feitshans within 22-20 with 4:27 left in the half. Mounts hit a ten-foot turnaround and a Brown a fast break two-pointer to halt the threat momentarily.

Bob Burrus canned two free ones and John Lathan one from 15 feet to narrow the gap to 26-25 before Mounts and Gary McKean swished for the Jacks for a 30-25 edge. Loren Smith and Burrus connected for Feitshans in the final minute of the half to cut the difference to 30-29 at intermission.

Mounts led the Crimson attack with 21 points, with aid from Brown's 18, but the two missed 25 of 40 shots between them. Duane Hess added 12 and Stowe added 12 and Hess added 12 and Coble added 12.

North Greene Edges Virden For 17th Win

WHITE HALL — Led by Tom Giller's free throw accuracy in the final period, North Greene stormed from behind to nip Virden 75-71 in a non-conference game here Saturday evening.

The Bulldogs, down 37-33 at intermission, edged to a one point advantage after three stops as Steve Krempasky poured in 11 markers in the third frame to lead the Virden surge. The visitors were up by three before North Greene tallied just before the chapter end.

Krempasky paced all scorers with a 29-point performance, while Giller's 13 and Dave Ashlock's and Dave Van Gieson's 12 points each led the Panthers.

North Greene, outshooting the visitors 47% to 38% from the floor and 63% to 61% from the charity stripe, posted a 45-27 rebounding edge that helped claim the win.

The Panthers, recovering from a slight slump, now sport a 17-6 season mark, while Virden drops to 6-13.

March 9 with the New York Yankees playing Washington at the Senators' camp in Pompano Beach, Fla. There will be six games the following day and a full slate on the weekend of March 11-12 with action every day through Sunday, April 9, the day before the regular season opens.

Dick Williams of the Boston Red Sox is one of the three new managers who will take control during the spring season. The others are Joe Adcock at Cleveland and Mayo Smith, former boss of the Phillies and Cincinnati, who will try again with the Detroit Tigers.

Most observers will be keeping a keen eye on Walter Alston's moves at Vero Beach as he toils to repair the damage done to the Dodgers by the retirement of Koufax and the loss of Wills.

Greenfield Surges Past Routt, 73-66

GREENFIELD — Dan Bowman's hot third quarter and six straight free throws in the final two minutes of the game powered Greenfield to a slim 73-66 non-conference victory over Routt, here Saturday evening.

After a 33-33 intermission standoff, Greenfield took command in the third as Bowman hit three straight from the top of the key and scored 12 in the period to boost the hosts into a nine-point margin entering the closing eight minutes.

Routt lost its top two scorers, Don Fernandes and Chuck McNeely, in his fourth period, and Greenfield had three players to leave with five personal fouls.

Holding a 56-56 margin with 4:24 to play, Greenfield went into ball control. Dan Welsh hit a driving bucket with 2:30 to play to pull Routt within 69-64, but Sanders canned two charity throws for Greenfield to check the tide. Four more free ones more than offset another Welsh bucket at the end.

Palmer Holding Four-Shot Lead At Final Turn
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Arnold Palmer overcame two straight bogeys with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole Saturday to carry a four-stroke lead into the final round of the $60,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer withstood some early third-round surges by several close pursuers after getting his errant putting touch under control.

He sank three birdie putts on the front nine, none longer than three feet, and then added three consecutive bird putts beginning on the 13th hole, the longest a 20-footer on the 15th green.

Bogeys on the 16th and 17th holes dropped his lead to three strokes, where he had begun the day, but the birdie on the 18th hole gave him a 33-34-67 for a three-round total of 16-under-par 200.

The 200 strokes tied the low 54-hole record of the 1967 tour shot by Bob Goalby in the San Diego open.

"I didn't make any putts at all on the first nine holes," said Palmer. "Some of the ones I missed were really short."

"I've been driving particularly well," said Palmer, although he hit three sand traps on the 7,200-yard par 36-36-72 Tucson National Golf Club Course.

In second place, four strokes back, were Australian Bruce Crampton and Chuck Courtney of La Jolla, Calif.

Barry Uses Late 'Dosh Icy Spell To Win, 69-56

Meredosia, down by only 44-42 after three stops missed several buckets in the opening minutes of the frame, and Barry took command.

Bruce Dawson paced the Indians with 18, and Gary Hamm added 17 for the losing hosts, while Losch and Phillips led Barry, combining for 45 markers on 23-point and 22-point efforts, respectively.

Barry shot 40 per cent from the floor for the evening, while "Dosh, now 3-19 for the season, managed a 37 per cent field goal effort.

AREA TAXPAYERS MAIL '67 RETURNS TO SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. — Do you know where to mail your 1967 Federal income tax return?

Each week, thousands of persons call the Internal Revenue Service asking for the correct mailing address, and many taxpayers mail their returns to the wrong address.

Jay G. Philpott, District Director of Internal Revenue for Central and Southern Illinois, said today that taxpayers in Central and Southern Illinois should mail their returns to District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Springfield, Illinois 62704.

Mailing your return to the correct address will get your return into process sooner and should result in earlier issuance of your refund if you are entitled to one.

New Patient Care May Boost Chances For Critically Ill

Sister M. Michaelen, C.S.C., administrator of Holy Cross Hospital, announces the opening of a new department, an Intensive Care Unit.

The public is invited to an open house today from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. to tour this unit and learn of its unique benefits.

Holy Cross Hospital has designed this specially-equipped unit for patients who are critically ill and who need constant care and close observation.

This is of special interest to the citizens of Morgan and surrounding counties because it manifests the hospital's response to a community need for advancement, professional and scientific, in the health field.

Also of interest is the fact that the opening of this unit provides Jacksonville with a new concept of medical and nursing care — one that has not been available to this city until now.

Formerly, patients who were admitted to the hospital in serious condition were placed on a general nursing unit, and the nurses were unable to give as much care to these patients as was needed.

24-Hour Service
The Intensive Care Unit is a separate nursing division of the hospital, the purpose of which is to provide twenty-four intensive, specialized, and individualized nursing care to those patients who are very seriously ill or injured.

At Holy Cross Hospital the unit is composed of two patient areas — one for coronary care and the other for intensive medical or surgical care, a nursing station, and a waiting room for relatives.

Serves Nine Patients
There are accommodations to care for a maximum of nine patients who are seriously or critically ill.

The coronary area is especially designed for patients suffering from serious heart ailments. Particular emphasis is given to the cardiac monitor or heart machine — an electronic device which has the capacity to measure, record, and demonstrate electrically the continuous activity of the human heart.

The cardiac monitor is extremely useful in the detection of possible cardiac irregularities which, if undetected, could become fatal.

Post - Operative Patients
The other area of Intensive Care will be utilized by medical and surgical patients. Apart from the general nursing units in the hospital, the Intensive Care Unit is physically designed to provide constant patient observation by the nursing staff, as well as immediate accessibility to both standard and emergency drugs and supplies.

The unit is established with modern equipment for resuscitation in emergency situations, and supplies are all well-placed in this section. Oxygen and suction are piped in the walls for accessibility and ready use. Electrical outlets are spaced frequently to provide ease of hookup of any major emergency equipment.

Staff Preparation
Because the Intensive Care Unit is established primarily for better nursing care for the patient, the greatest concern has been given to the selection and preparation of the nursing staff. The nurses staffing this unit have received specialized, advanced preparation for this service.

Sister Sheila Marie, C.S.C., supervisor, completed a four-week course at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., together with experience in the local hospitals there.

Mrs. Reino Stich has had two weeks' experience in the Intensive Care Unit at Saint John's Hospital, Springfield, Illinois. Mrs. J. W. Hughes will be attending Cornell University in New York City for a six-week course in the near future, in addition to her week's observation of the Intensive Care Unit at Blessing Hospital in Quincy, Illinois.

Miss Chris Gardner, who recently joined the nursing staff, brings with her a year's experience in an Intensive Care Unit in a large Chicago hospital.

By this concentration of skilled personnel and equipment in one area, and the establishment of more intensive and higher quality of care, it is hoped that lives which would have been lost will now be saved.

The nurses' station has been especially designed by the nursing staff, permitting the nurses to be within view of all patients at all times.

A separate waiting room adjacent to the unit is provided for the relatives and friends of critical patients.

Long - Range Planning
Long hours of planning and research have gone into the establishment of this Intensive Care Unit by the nursing personnel, medical staff and the administration. Policies have been studied, and re-studied; designs of the physical layout have been drawn up, re-designed with makeup of location, type of fixtures, equipment and supplies.

Determination of patient needs, of cases, of financing, and of the fullest utilization possible have been the object of months of study.

Quincy Woman Held On Murder Investigation
QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—A Quincy woman was held for investigation Saturday while local and state police studied circumstances surrounding the death of her husband.

Police Chief Ray A. Welsh said Mrs. Anna Lewellan, 68, gave several versions of the death of her husband, Homer, 73, who was pronounced dead Thursday at a service station in Chicago.

Welsh said Mrs. Lewellan was held without formal charge while authorities sought to determine the cause of Lewellan's death.

The woman drove in to a service station on Chicago's Southwest Side Thursday with her husband and asked an attendant to call police. Lewellan was pronounced dead at the service station.

Chicago police said Mrs. Lewellan first told them the couple stopped in Dwight to fix a tire and were set upon by three youths who beat Lewellan on the head with a stick and robbed them of $65 and two suitcases. She then drove on to Chicago to find a doctor, police quoted her.

Under further questioning, however, Chicago police said, Mrs. Lewellan told them her husband was beaten by her son by a previous marriage Wednesday night in their home in Quincy.

Chicago police turned her over to Quincy authorities who returned her to Quincy Friday night.

Quincy police said the woman told them she had two sons by Lewellan, Homer J., 31, who she said is an inmate of the Missouri penitentiary, and Merle, 28, whose whereabouts police were seeking to determine.

Welsh said her story of a son by a previous marriage was being checked.

The Lewellan's had lived in Quincy since 1958, Welsh said.

Early History, Deftly Told

Scholarly Book On Pulitzer

For more than 12 years quite a few folks in Jacksonville wondered why Julian Rammelkamp deserted us, high and dry.

We knew that he was teaching history at Albion College, up in the Michigan town of the same name. But, there are summer vacations so even history professors can get off a day or so to visit his old cronies.

Now we know what he was doing with his time.

He was reading everything that could possibly pertain to the development of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch under the ownership and management of Joseph Pulitzer from its first five years.

His book entitled "Pulitzer's Post-Dispatch, 1878-1883" was issued last month by Princeton University Press. There's 326 pages in the book. It is well printed and appears to be well bound, and Lane's Book Store has it on sale at $7.50.

A Son of Morgan
The author, now 50 years old, is a son of Dr. Charles Henry and Rhoda Capps Rammelkamp and was born right here in Jacksonville.

He attended the Fourth Ward school and Illinois College, and then did graduate work at Brown University and Harvard before being called into the Signal Corps where he served more than two years in the extremely sensitive Panama Canal Zone.

We had to hold the Big Ditch. He married Miss Mabel Tippet, then the society editor and staff writer of the East St. Journal. They have three sons: David, now a freshman at Brown U., Providence, R. I., and the twins, Robert A. and Julian S., 13.

He received his Ph. D. from Harvard last year.

For around three years, right after his release from the army signal corps, Mr. Rammelkamp worked for the Journal Courier, as so many people will remember. During all that time he faithfully pursued on microfilm his chosen field, the life and exploits of Joseph Pulitzer.

A Hard Working Author
Since then he has chased down people who know anything about the long-necked Hungarian editor and has interviewed them and has read everything from a tome to a handbill about the highly successful owner of the Post-Dispatch, a man who explored monopoly when he had the evening franchise to the Associated Press wire, who was for labor unions until the women in the composing room setting six point type, 10 hours a day, for $6 a week, decided to better their working conditions and pay; a man who was like the weatherman, who whirled around by the clock and is often incorrect, but who makes mighty good pay and is the most talked about man in town.

Us guys around the Journal Courier tried to talk Julian into the notion of doing something better with his time than frittering around with Pulitzer, but he's a pretty hard-headed Dutchman and has kept up his hobby, if you can call it that, for 22 years now.

Mrs. Russell Crotchett and Mrs. Hazel McSchooler are co-chairmen for the solicitation in Jacksonville and various precinct chairmen are being called on to solicit homes that day.

Mrs. Crotchett and Mrs. McSchooler have announced that the following groups will assist in the work in Jacksonville: Precinct One, Holy Ghost Parents Club and A.P.L. - CIO Ladies; Precinct Two, Jacksonville Junior Woman's Club; Precinct Three, Mrs. William Ebker; Precinct Four, West Parent Teachers Association; Precinct Five, Democratic Woman's Club; Precinct Six, Republican Woman's Club; Precinct Seven, Jacksonville Jaycees; Precinct Eight, Rainbow Girls, and Precinct Nine, East Parent Teacher's Association.

Guest speaker for the evening was the Scott County Farm Adviser, George Myers, who spoke on Home Beautification, discussing art, landscaping and using visual aids to illustrate his talk.

The chairman for the club's ward party, Mrs. Dean Robinson, announced that the party would be held March 21 at Jacksonville State Hospital. (Turn To Page Eleven)

CHECK DEATH CAR — Cass County Deputy Coroner Carl Wessel examines the car in which Diane Gray of Jacksonville apparently drowned Saturday night. Her northbound car went out of control on the Arenzville hill and plunged into Indian creek. Members of the Cass county rescue squad extricated the body from the vehicle.

JULIAN RAMMELKAMP

And his first book is just off the press. And there'll be sequels.

His book is well written, and the footnotes indicate many, many hours of scholarly research.

We don't hear it so much now, but quite often in your earlier days, you heard a man referred to as "a gentleman and a scholar." Now, on reflection, it's mighty hard to be either one, and the combination would just have to be amazing.

But I knew one man who was both a gentleman and a scholar. His name was Charles Henry Rammelkamp, president of Illinois College from 1905 to his death in 1933.

And, his son Julian has always been a gentleman, and he begins looking like a scholar. —Cecil Tendick

Altrusa Club Fills Vacancy In Office Post

Miss Thelma Bacon, vice president, presided at the Feb. 13th dinner meeting of the Altrusa Club of Jacksonville held at the Ranch House.

Due to the resignation of Mrs. Olive DeLude as secretary Miss Anna Louise Reinhardt was appointed to fulfill that term of office. The club's business and program meetings will be held, through the month of May, at the Ranch House, falling on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. A 6:30 dinner will precede each session. The exception to this arrangement is the Golden Anniversary Party for the club to be held Tuesday, April 11th, following the tradition with each Altrusa club throughout the world marking the date with a meeting at that time.

Aileen Wright reported plans for the annual antique show on April 29 and 30 at the Holiday Inn proceeding according to plan. Jean Stotler and Frances Webb will have charge of the Feb. 27th program.

Beaux Arts Ball Chairmen

Page One Section Two

Mrs. Albert G. Pearce and Mrs. J. Harry Dowland

The board of directors of the Art Association of Jacksonville has named Mrs. Albert G. Pearce and Mrs. J. Harry Dowland as co-chairmen of the 1967 Beaux Arts Ball. This tenth annual Ball will have as its theme "Palette Magic" and will be held Saturday, April 15.

The Coronation for the Queen and the presentation of her Court will be held at the Jacksonville High School gymnasium. Open House and Reception will be at the David Art Gallery, and the Ball at the local Elks Club.

Following a policy formulated by the board of directors of the Art Association, participants are young people chosen from families which have shown an active interest in the Art Association by being members, patrons, and by contributing volunteer service. Final selection is made by a secret committee.

Proceeds of the Ball are used to provide an Art Director for the Gallery, to offer classes in art for children and adults, to bring outstanding art exhibits to the community, and to help maintain the Gallery.

It has been suggested that a new seating arrangement for patrons be used this year. Reserved seats will be assigned in the order in which the reservations are received.

Editorial Comment

The 25th Amendment

Ratification of the 25th Amendment of the Constitution brought a genuine sense of relief. Now, for the first time, there is law which adequately deals with the question of what to do when a president becomes unable to perform his duties.

Once the ball was set rolling in Congress, ratification by the required three-fourths of the states came smoothly and without exceptional delay. This was rather deceptive, however, for in truth the 25th amendment culminates long effort to revise the ambiguous language in the Constitution's provisions on this subject. It might not have come even now had not the Kennedy murder and subsequent events so sharply underscored the need for clarification.

The need had been clear for a long time. President Eisenhower's grave illnesses while in office had pointed up one aspect of the problem, and long before that there had been episodes which made it clear that America was long on luck but short on intelligent planning for this contingency. Another aspect of the matter was brought home when President Johnson functioned for a year without a vice president and two elderly members of Congress were next in line of succession.

Now all that is past. The new amendment was automatically added to the Constitution when the 38th state (Nevada, as it happened) ratified it. We now have a clear, detailed guideline assuring smooth transition in case of emergency.

Record Employment

The most heartening news about the economy in some time has just come out of Washington. This is word that the post-Christmas slump in jobs was less than usual this year, and that total employment in January hit the record high of 72 million.

This news does not wholly counteract declines in various other economic indicators, which continue to show a softening after an unprecedented boom. Nor has the hard-core rate of unemployment gone down; in January it remained at 3.7 per cent, which in terms of people means that 3.1 million were out of work.

Washington

States Pay Price For Federal Aid

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — To get federal assistance under the ballooning, controversial grants-in-aid programs, the 50 states commit themselves to certain substantial expenditures that they appear to be keeping very poor track of.

A major example:

Under the famed interstate highway system, the federal government in most instances puts up 90 per cent of the construction cost, the participating state the remaining 10 per cent.

Yet for the entire life of the roads involved, and these could come to hundreds or even thousands of miles in particular states, the state is committed to paying maintenance, repair and related service costs — such as the cost of police patrolling.

Drawing on figures supplied by highway officials, the Bureau of Public Roads has given congressional committees an estimate that when the entire 41,-

000-mile interstate network is completed, it will cost the 50 states at least $400 million a year to maintain and service

these roadways. The figure is probably quite conservative.

Federal-state specialists suggest that very sizable maintenance sums are also involved in other "brick and mortar" federal grant programs, including construction of hospitals, college dormitories, airports, water, sewer and other community facilities.

A canvass of this field indicates, however, that nearly all the states are painfully fuzzy on the amount and nature of these supplementary expenditures induced by participation in juicy federal programs.

At the behest of the National Association of State Budget Officers, the states submitted their complaints against the working of grant programs at the state-local level. The association's compact 22-page report listed

69 specific "impediments" but never mentioned the problem of inescapable maintenance and service costs.

Nor is the matter being discussed before Maine Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's Senate subcommittee, which is presently looking into federal-state fiscal relations.

New York's Gov. Nelson

Rockefeller told the committee that his state spent a disproportionate amount of money and time merely to try to qualify for some federal planning funds — and to date has received less than a sixth of the requested

sum. He echoed other officials who complain that the grant-in-aid system distorts state-local finances, and who urge some form of federal-state tax-sharing.

Nevertheless, the states' arguments — current and past — have been thought to be weakened by the evidence that they have not generally kept their own financial houses in good order.

Their fuzziness on the issue of supplementary maintenance and service costs of federal aid programs is no help to their cause.

Experts in federal-state relations and in some of the affected federal agencies say bookkeeping practices among the states are far too vague to give them

(with occasional exceptions) an accurate reading on what they lay out over the years to keep in running order what Washington has "given" them.

If they set out boldly what now amounts almost to hidden extra charges for these programs, some states might not be so eager to join in. Without that clear indication, a 90-10 matching ratio such as prevails in the interstate highway program is, in the words of one authority,

"so strong an inducement it's coercive."

Despite state complaints, the attractiveness of federal aid programs seems unlikely to lessen. They are expected to spend at least as much for major construction in the next decade as they did in the last. They need outside help. The U.S. government, which now provides almost a fifth of state-local funds, is the obvious source.

Yours truly,

Communication

Dear Sir:

In your editorial of February

15, you quote Artemis Ward of a century ago "Tis their knowing so much that Ain't so." You quote a gentleman from a hundred years ago and yet you tend to apply it to present day circumstances. Your editorial states that the communists are no longer monolith but that is still not deferring them from their ideology of world conquest. You say that monolith is a matter of the past and will not be restored.

This I cannot believe due to the fact that Russia still supplies Vietnam in a conflict against us and Red China continues to come to her rescue.

You say that the ambassador to Russia, George F. Kennan testified before the Foreign Relations Committee in support of the proposed consular treaty with the Soviet Union.

If you will recall we had ambassadors in China before China went communist who had slanted views and ambassadors in Cuba before Cuba became Communist who had slanted views.

Whenever we deal with a Communist country be it treaty, trade, or otherwise we seem to be on the losing end of the stick.

Rather than quoting Artemis

Ward, I would rather quote the testimony of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI in March of 1965 before a congressional subcommittee "that signing of the Soviet Consular Treaty was a cherished goal of the Soviet inteligence services." Also that the "diplomatic immunity" clause in this proposal is not in line with thirty-three nations with whom we now have treaties. This seems to be something special for the Soviets.

Let's Go Birding

Golden Surprise

By Emma Mae Leonhard

January 21 was a lucky morning for us birders, and a surprise one too. We always consider ourselves lucky if we see one Bald Eagle; the more of its species, the luckier we are. On this spring-like winter morning we soon totaled at least a dozen Bald Eagles. Most of them were scattered on the frozen surface of the wide lake, their beautiful white tails and heads matching the white ledges of the wind-driven heaps of ice. These great dark birds looked like granite outcroppings in contrast to the black Crows dotting the ice surface.

As we approached the lake, we supposed that, if we were lucky with Bald Eagles, we would have to look hard and long with our binoculars to find them. We did for the final count but not for the first one. Before we had reached the edge of the ice, we detected our white-headed national bird just in front of us, and to its left sat a companion Eagle without a white head. We automatically decided that it was an immature.

Eagles Alert

The Eagles saw us too and, raising their enormous dusky bodies on their long wings, flew away from us. When we caught a good look at the Eagle on the left, we felt that it was not a Bald Eagle even from its general appearance. As it wheeled to the right and we caught a view of its back and upper surface of its tail, we knew, without a doubt, that it was a Golden Eagle. Its white tail with the dark terminal band definitely identified it.

What a surprise! Why? In the first place, authorities consider the Golden Eagle a rarity in our area. It belongs to the remote mountains, tundra, deserts, and grasslands. We have, however, within the last few years seen our Golden Eagle at Lake Jacksonville and two in the Crane Lake area.

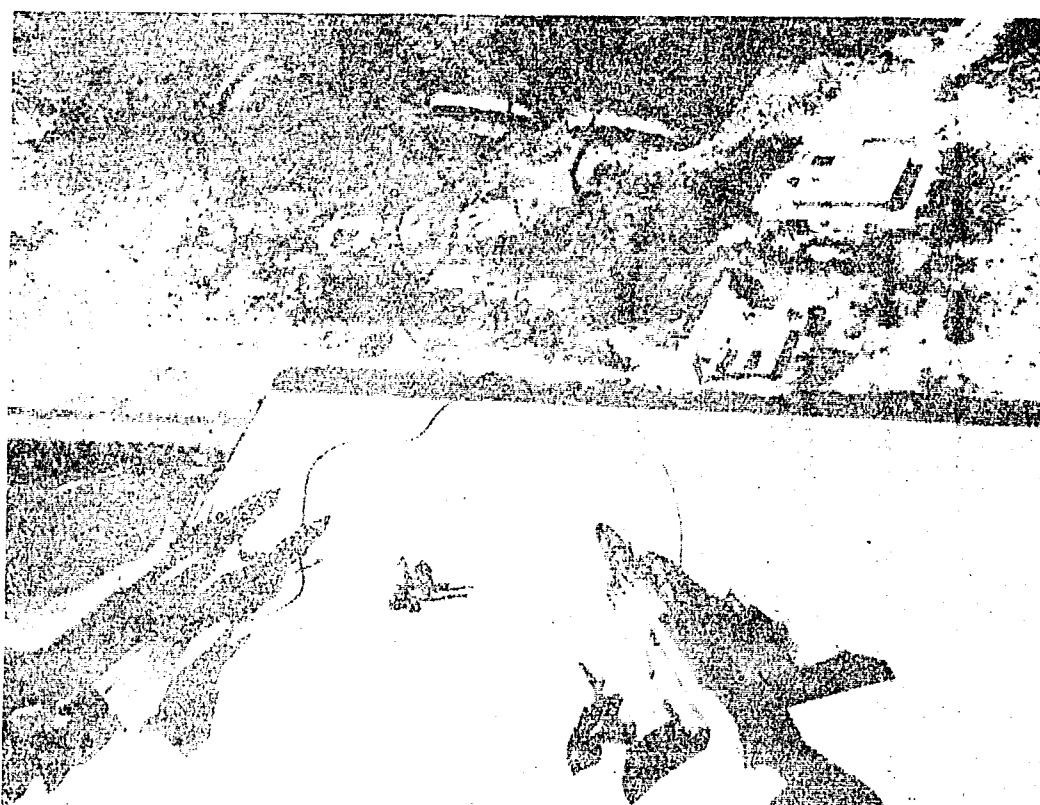

In the second place, we wouldn't expect to find a Golden Eagle sitting on the ice. It feeds mostly on rodents and seldom touches dead animals. The Bald Eagle, on the other hand, feeds mainly upon fish, dead ones cast ashore or at the edge of open water in a frozen body of water.

In the third and last place, we were surprised to find the Golden Eagle and Bald Eagle enjoying each other's company on ice. What a golden surprise it was!

PORTABLE FILLING STATION

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

(U.S. Air Force photo) The Air Force is already using newly-developed portable aircraft filling stations, like the one shown above, in Southeast Asia. They can be air-lifted to remote bases and can hold more than other heavier and more bulky systems.

The system was developed by the Air Force's Systems Engineering Group at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. It is designed to speed up fueling of planes and helicopters at advance bases in the field. Six men can have the improved fueling system set up and ready for operation within an hour after the unit and its empty storage tanks have been delivered by a four engine C-130 Hercules cargo plane.

Mighty Hercules
Since the Hercules can carry 36,000 pounds of cargo it could actually carry three of these 11,000 pound units with plenty of room left for the crews to set them up. By contrast the earlier portable filling stations used by the Air Force weighed 34,000 pounds.

When packed for shipping the entire improved fueling system fits onto its own trailer and takes up little more room than a small house trailer. The two 50,000 gallon fuel tanks are actually polyurethane-coated nylon bags. They can be folded into a bundle 13 feet long, 4 feet 2 inches wide and two feet high. Unfolded and ready for filling each tank is 66 feet long and two feet wide.

Besides the fuel tanks the system includes hoses to connect the tanks, valves, automatic pressure controls, a "final filter," a quantity meter, fire extinguishers and a 600 gallon-per-minute diesel engine driven centrifugal pump. Two aircraft can be fueled at the same time either by gravity or by using air pressure to drive the fuel into their tanks. Clifton J. Miller, project engineer in the System Engineering Group's Fluid Control Branch, said that the new system, called the A-E 32 R-14, "offers greater flexibility in deployment, can be put into operation more quickly and is able to service more aircraft faster."

Prayer Poem

Inward Peace

By Mary Pence Claywell

"The wicked are like the troubled sea,"
The Good Book tells us so...
"When it can not rest," O Father God,
As it madly...comes and goes;
"Whose waters cast up mire and dirt,"
And there's no calm...no PEACE,
For the grinding sands of the sea of life,
And its turbidness...never cease:

But there is Peace in a contrite heart,
It comes by the Blood, and changes, never;
It's deep in the Sacred Heart of God,
Whose Arms are OUT-STRETCHED, EVER!

As a general rule, cake pans should be filled from only one-half to two-thirds full.

News in Jewelry

Have you heard of electronic jewelry? This is soon to be on the market.

Examples are: earrings in the shape of drums which beat, and pins in the shape of a stop light which changes from red to green! Whatever will they think of next?

School Scene
Well, FINALLY semester exams are over. Whew! How did you do?

I passed all of mine and on two of them I would have made a perfect score—except that I missed one point. One point! That makes me so mad!

From Vietnam
Just received a letter from John. He says, "This unit was supposed to go mechanized but they couldn't get the equipment so we are now walking the jungles just as we always have. We used convoys to go from one place to the other."

"One day we were going into base camp and the V.C. had put mines in the three vehicles. Three men were hurt pretty bad—the others not too seriously, but seriously enough."

We had a good New Year's and Christmas, better than I expected. They had all the companies together so that we could see our friends that we hadn't seen for awhile.

The weather is real hot down here, up in the 100's every day. No rain. I sure wish it would rain so it would cool off some."

Weather At Home
Reading his letter reminds me of last summer. Wasn't it hot? Now we are packed under with this snow. It was so nice for awhile.

Oh, well, at least our winter apparel won't be wasted, but then I prefer to let them waste. Shall we ship some of this snow over to Vietnam?

Laugh Lines
Joe to fraternity brother: "Say, Jack, I heard you had a fight with your roommate last night."

Jack: "Yes, but when it was over he came crawling to me on hands and knees."

Joe: "What did he say?"

Jack: "Come out from under that bed, you coward!"

News On T.V.
As I told all of you before, my favorite television show is the Man From U.N.C.L.E. Well it still is, but I now have a second favorite. "The Invaders."

I really think this show is good. It holds your interest and is more real than "Lost in Space."

Driving Age

According to our D. E. teacher before September it is going to be a state law that you can not get a license at 16, or 17 unless you are a graduate of both phases of the driving education. This includes the classroom instruction (which reduces insurance fees) and behind the wheel.

So hurry on in before the crowd starts! If you are 15 you are eligible.

THE CAVE MYSTERY

By John Rankin

Part 2: Another Outlet?
Ed and Benny are exploring a while and then took down an-cave when a turn brings them other trail of some sort that in sight of a light further along ended up nowhere!

The afternoon lengthened and the hours dragged on into the night to heap frustration on the unhappy youngsters. Then at long last they came to a tunnel that somehow looked familiar and they followed it with hopes soaring that it would lead them out of the troublesome cave.

But much to their dismay the boys ended up in the same wall-decorated room they had explored earlier in the day. Highly confused and with all hopes of finding their way out of the place exhausted, they huddled together in a dark corner of the cave and waited. Would a rescue party come to their aid, perhaps? Or were they forever doomed to remain lost and forgotten in their self-imposed underground prison?

Footsteps
For a long while the hapless young explorers waited with only the sound of dripping water to break the deadly stillness. Then finally the faint but distinct sound of footsteps came from somewhere along the tunnel.

With each breathtaking moment it drew near and nearer and then a light swung into view. One of a rescue party, perhaps? Or had a savage Indian or heartless and cold-blooded outlaw from the distant past returned to his former haunt seeking revenge on uninvited guests?

Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council News

Kathy Whitton and Sheryl Leake left Friday morning at 5:00 o'clock for Flint, Michigan to attend Girl Scout Conference — Folk Lore Through the Arts. Kathy's mother, grandmother and brother accompanied the girls to Chicago. There the girls boarded a United Airlines Plane at 11:20, arriving in Flint at 12:10. They were met at the airport by Mrs. White and daughter, Sheryl. Kathy was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowley where she was to stay. Sheryl stayed with the Whites. At 6:00 p.m. Kathy and Sheryl went to the college for registration and getting acquainted. Then they attended a hootenanny.

Two local groups, the Exiles and The Dominators, provided music for dancing. There were also 3 groups of girls singing folk songs. At 9:00 p.m. everyone went home for a good night's rest, but 4-5 hours was the most any one got.

At 9:00 Saturday morning everyone returned to the college for the kick-off. Miss Gwen Frostie spoke to the group. She loves nature and expresses her feeling with drawing and writing about it. In her lecture she told us the Conference had been 1 1/2 years in planning and that you get out of it only what you put into it. She also spoke about our freedom. She said when you do the things the gang does, you give up your freedom.

At 10:00 o'clock the girls Kathy's class was in Stone Cutting and Polishing. They were shown an elaborate way to polish stones and a simpler way. All the girls made their own pierced ear rings. Sheryl's class was in Puppetry. They learned some history of puppet making and made one of their own.

At 12:00 o'clock everyone went to the Cafeteria for lunch. The Council provided potato chips and soda pop. The families where the girls stayed had provided sack lunches.

The second craft classes began at 1:00 o'clock. Kathy's was in block printing. They made a design on a piece of lineoleum, then printed it on a piece of paper. Sheryl's was in beadwork. They started to make book markers out of beads. This was not completed, so enough beads were given out to finish the marker at home. This session ended at 3:00 p.m.

After a half hour break, the third session in crafts began. Kathy's class was Puppetry and each made a hand puppet. Sheryl's was leather craft and everyone made a mouse out of leather. They cut it out, molded it into shape and painted it. When this session ended, a half hour break was enjoyed.

At 6:00 o'clock everyone attended the Banquet where they served fried chicken. After the meal, Mr. Carl Wonnberg, director of Canbrook Summer Theatre School in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, gave a very nice talk on careers in acting.

Home again at 9:00 p.m. About every troop had a party planned, so there was very little sleep again that night.

Sunday morning at 10:30, Kathy and Sheryl arrived at the airport in Flint. The plane left at 11:10 and arrived in Chicago at 12:20. The girls arrived home at 7:00 p.m., very tired but very happy.

Franklin Troop Scouts of Troop No. 74 sponsored by the P.T.A. of Franklin School, have been enjoying themselves. We started early in October with the help and support of all concerned. Our hard working Troop Committee especially: Mrs. Robert Evans, Chairman, Mrs. Percival Hansen, Record Keeper, Mrs. Frank Clark, Transportation, Mrs. Donald Dellert, Meeting Place, and Mrs. Lloyd Shumaker, P.T.A. representative.

Our Court of Honor met often and planned well. A field trip and a day at camp in November. Caroling with a gift exchange afterwards, and a work day at camp in December.

A mimeographed report of plans, hopes, and dreams done for us by the Scout Office kept our families informed.

We started the New Year with a town hike to the Journal-Courier Office for a conducted tour of their plant.

We plan to share with three other troops, fun and games, on Thinking Day. We have over nites scheduled at Shagbark for March and April. A meeting with our Brownie sister troop is planned for April. Our Mother's are invited for tea in May. All of this was planned by our Court of Honor now retired. We have just elected and installed new officers who we are sure will plan as wisely.

Continuing activities include badge work, song and games, service work for the Council at Camp Shagbark, and being good Scouts every day.

February 14th was fun as we combined telling of trips, skits, story telling, and collector's displays with surprise refreshments from the leaders for a gala time.

Leaders Mrs. Donald Plemitscher and Mrs. John Murga-troyd are new to scouting this year. It would be difficult to decide who is having the most fun. Our twenty-five girls or we adults.

IAA Farmer Tourists Find China Upheaval Frets Japan's Trade

TOKYO, Japan—Japan's multi-billion-dollar grain trading industry is registering sharp reactions to the civil war on the Chinese mainland. With the government of Mao Tse-tung seriously threatened, grain traders here can find no one in China with whom to negotiate reliable contracts.

That was the story here Feb. 2 as representatives of the Illinois Agricultural Association World Trade and Production Mission met with top representatives of the Japanese grain trade.

Japan depends mainly on the United States and Red China for supplies of grain, especially soybeans, which move in great quantity into Japan. With the political upheaval in China, Japanese traders are looking heavily to the United States grain suppliers, at least for the next 90 days. And so, in this capital of a nation which is the best customer for American grain, discussions were lively.

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association and leader of the mission, said that he was "extremely impressed by the willingness of the top people in Japan's grain trading firms to discuss expansion of Illinois' role in supplying grain to Japanese firms that sell in world markets."

Talk Quality, Price

Kuhfuss went on to say that the Japanese are highly interested in developing sources of supply which can guarantee delivery of soybeans raised in Illinois since those beans are recognized around the world as a high oil content product.

"If Illinois soybeans are superior, then Illinois farmers should receive premium payments for the beans," Kuhfuss said. "It is on that basis that we talked with Japanese buyers."

Analysis of the market potential for soybeans and other feed grains indicates that the Japanese market, although huge buyers of American grains, can still absorb more grain. Buyers want good quality products at competitive prices and they are highly aware of the actions of the government of the United States as it affects grain price.

Westernized Breakfast
Recently, certain Japanese grain dealers have been contracting with midwestern farmers for certain varieties of edible soybeans used here to make a soybean soup which is a traditional mainstay of the Japanese breakfast diet. Trade mission representatives learned, however, that the possibilities of the growth of this market were limited since the breakfast habits of many younger Japanese are becoming westernized. Many young Japanese families have abandoned the traditional dishes and are going to the

FINANCING FARMING
from an address by T. D. Brown, Pres. Security Bank, Sterling, Colo., and Chairman Agricultural Committee American Bankers Association.

American agriculture is a growing sector of our economy. Our farmers and ranchers last year used resources of approximately 253 billion dollars. Of this total over four-fifths was owned equity capital and the balance, about 41 billion dollars, was borrowed money. Commercial banks supplied about one-fourth of these credit needs or about 10 billion dollars for farmers and ranchers. This was a new high for banks and was a 10% increase from a year earlier. A large majority of the banks reporting to the ABA showed a willingness and ability to meet the reasonable credit requirements of sound operators. The commercial banking system through individual banks and their correspondents looks forward to being a part of the exciting times ahead for American agriculture.

FROM THE CORN CRIB

In Paris, Texas, a policeman gave special consideration to a newlywed's car bearing a "Just Married" sign. The car was parked too close to a fire hydrant, and it partially blocked a driveway. The officer wrote out two tickets — one marked "His" and the other "Hers."

LAW

RETIREMENT LAW MADE MORE ATTRACTIVE

Congress passed a Self-Employed Retirement law in 1962 and amended it in 1966, making it much more attractive to farmers.

This law permits self-employed persons such as farmers to set up retirement plans similar to plans available to corporate employees. A business tax deduction is allowed for contributions to the plan and income earned from contributions is not currently taxed. Before this law was passed, any money set aside by individuals for retirement purposes had to come from money left after taxes, and money earned from investment of these funds was includable in income.

Meat Very Expensive
Japan's livestock industry is very small and inefficient and consumer meat prices are two to four times as high as they are in the United States. Livestock producers here are unable to meet current demands and limited space for expansion leaves little hope that Japanese farmers can produce enough livestock for a growing market.

The younger generation is earning more money and they want to live better than their parents did. Such an upgrading in living standards always begins with improved diet. As demands here increase, Japan will be looking for supplies of red meat. Although they may go to nearby Australia and New Zealand for their meat supplies, anything that increases the consumption of meat in the world will ultimately benefit the United States, the world's top producer of feed grains. But the United States will have to remain sensitive to the changes and program its production to meet the demand.

Integrity And Quality
"The key products we have to sell are our integrity and our quality products," Kuhfuss reported. "We have the capability through Illinois Grain Corporation to procure quantities of grain of a reliably superior quality." Illinois Grain Corporation is an IAA affiliated company.

As this week ends, the trade mission will have completed its month-long, globe-circling work. Members of the mission will soon return to the United States with a better picture of the world market situation and a clearer idea of where Illinois farmers fit into the complicated world trade picture.

Defense Driving School Seeks More Students

This year's "Defensive Driving" school will begin Wednesday, Feb. 23, at Farm Bureau hall and will be concluded the following day.

The instructors will be Pat Asper of Country Companies, Farm Bureau insurance affiliate, and Trooper R. J. Nadalini of the Illinois State Police.

Each day's session will begin at 12:30 p.m. and conclude at 4:30.

"We fear that many people think that they must pass some sort of test or examination, but that is altogether untrue," John Chambers, associate secretary of the Farm Bureau said Friday.

"We would like to have another 15 people enrolled in this course, which proved so highly successful and worthwhile last year. No advance reservation is now necessary. The cost for materials used is only $1. Asper and Nadalini are first class, experienced instructors and can help anybody improve their driving habits," Chambers emphasized.

Soybean Growers To Meet Tuesday

The second meeting of the recently organized Morgan County Soybean Growers association will be held Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p.m., announces James Johnson of Waverly, chairman.

At that time the executive committee made up of members from all sections of the county will be completed.

The local group is associated with the Land of Lincoln Soybean Growers association and the American Soybean association.

Anybody interested in any phase of soybean production or marketing is invited to attend.

BRIMFUL

and running over

By Jim Brim

Corn is still our most important crop and will be for some time. Here are five things to be done in order to get high yields.

1. Select high yield hybrids.
2. Plant thick and early.
3. Apply more fertilizer.
4. Control weeds.
5. Control insects.

And after you have done these things let's add No. 6 — harvest what you produce. Do a timely efficient job and take a good product out of the field. Any one of these practices usually increases yields but you can't obtain full benefit from any one of them without putting all five of these ideas to work to the best of your ability. Now is the time of year for you to plan how you will accomplish the production of a bumper crop. Very few of us do things the best way we know how to do them.

In order to implement No. 2 — Plant thick and early — many have gone to narrow rows, 20" to 30". Most seem to agree that you can expect a 5-10% increase when you go from 40 to 30 inch rows and probably not quite as much when you go to 20" rows. The actual amount of yield increase depends on the weather, the seed, etc.

Have all your questions answered before spring work starts.

Now you should . . .

- Beware of changing weather
- Eat citrus fruit.
- Read some of George Washington's writings.
- Dream about moving the lawn.
- Drink hot lemonade.
- Let Mom wash those dirty covers.
- Keep warm.

If you want to get nowhere, follow the crowd.

Are you suffering from cabin fever, winter fever or whatever you want to call it? Kick yourself out of the doldrums. Do something different, take a ride, go to a good movie, take part in church fellowship, visit your neighbors, visit new arrivals, read a book, look at seed catalogs, play with the children, learn something of interest with the children. Wake up and live.

We've had the New Deal and the Fair Deal. Now for overburdened taxpayers the Great Society may be called the Ordeal.

Cass Students Urged To Enter Essay Contest

VIRGINIA — Cass County Farm Bureau Women's committee members are sponsoring a "My Role in Good Government" essay contest. High school students will be eligible to compete. The contest is being promoted to encourage young people to think seriously about good government.

"It is hoped that the young people will become more aware of the meaning of democracy and of the individual's goal in preserving the democratic way of life," says Mrs. Donald Bierhaus, committee chairman. Entries in the contest may be submitted either through the school, or by the contestants directly to the County Farm Bureau office in Virginia.

The essay must be typed with double spacing or written in ink. It may not be more than 500 words. Entries will be judged on central theme or thought, clarity, grammar and neatness. The deadline for entering the contest is April 1. Several awards will be presented to the county winners including a trophy to the boy or girl entering the outstanding essay. The winning essay in the county will be submitted for judging in the district contest sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Students entering the contest may obtain a brochure entitled "How to Help your Lawmaker" from the Cass County Farm Bureau office. This brochure may be helpful in preparing their essays.

The wide range of pedigreed animals exported by England for breeding includes 20 varieties of cattle, sheep, pigs and farm horses.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

SOYBEAN STOCKS ABOVE EXPECTATION

Many farmers apparently expect prices of soybeans to go up more than enough to pay holding costs. Most speculators, however, seem to think that recent prices are too high to be maintained until next summer.

These conclusions are based on the futures prices for soybeans: Contracts for July delivery have been 5 cents or so lower than the March futures, whereas the July future is normally higher than the March by about the cost of holding the beans for four months.

How Many Beans in the Bins?
Stocks of soybeans on hand January 1 totaled 725 million bushels, according to the USDA. This amount was surprisingly large — 17 percent more than a year earlier. It was around 25 million bushels more than would be expected from official estimates of the 1966 crop and known crushings and exports. Possibly, the crop was larger than estimated. Also, stocks on hand January 1 probably were smaller than reported to the USDA.

Stocks held on farms were reported at 347 million bushels, up 22 percent. Stocks in elevators and mills totaled 378 million bushels, up 13 percent.

Exports from September 1 to February 1 (five months) were about the same as the year-before figure of 128 million bushels. The USDA estimates exports for the entire marketing year at about 275 million bushels, 10 percent more than last year. Large exports are expected because of an upward trend in demand from Europe and Japan. But even though the demand is growing, sales are still influenced by prices. Soybean oil and meal must sell in competition with many other products.

Crushings Increase Slightly.
Our mills used 1179 million bushels during the four-month period September through December. This amount was only 7 million bushels (4 percent) more than a year before. However, USDA specialists expect crushings in this marketing year to reach 575 million bushels, 7 percent more than in the past year. It now appears that the carryover of soybeans next September 1 may be 60 to 80 million bushels, compared with only 30 million bushels last fall.

The use of soybeans has not increased as much as some people expected — because the cost of soybeans has been high, in relation to the value of the products obtained from the beans. Our latest newspaper shows the cost of a bushel of soybeans is 2 cents more than a year before, but the value of the products is 10 cents less.

Demand for soybean meal is strong because of the increase in hog production and cattle feeding seem to be up about 8 percent from last year. Furthermore, there is a shortage of cottonseed meal, which is widely used in cattle rations. Around 22 million bushels of soybeans are needed to make up this deficit.

Recently, the price of soybean oil was listed at 10.2 cents a pound, down 17 percent from a year earlier. Even though supplies of cottonseed oil are smaller than last year, this deficit is more than made up by increased production of lard and soybean oil.

Illinois FFA Week Began Yesterday

"Agriculture — Strength of America" is the theme for Illinois Future Farmers of America Week, proclaimed to be Feb. 18-25 by Governor Otto J. Kerner.

During this week the state's 16,200 FFA members will join with more than 430,000 members throughout the U.S. in observing National FFA Week.

In making the proclamation, Governor Kerner noted that "this state is dependent to a great degree upon the productive efforts of those engaged in the business of agriculture."

Started in 1929 as a statewide organization for rural boys planning to farm, the FFA now provides programs for members planning careers in many agricultural occupations.

There are 436 local FFA chapters in the state that provide leadership, citizenship, and agriculture training under the direction of the local vo-ag instructor.

More than 50 per cent of the state's FFA members and vocational agriculture students are preparing for agricultural careers other than farming. Almost one-half of the state's vo-ag students continue their agricultural training in college or other post-high school programs.

Morgan's NFO Leaders Attend State Meeting

County leaders and members of the Morgan County NFO recently attended a closed state-wide strategy meeting at Springfield.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for a milk holding action and to discuss a new approach NFO is preparing to use in an attempt to raise prices on all farm commodities at the farm level.

County leaders were told that the "NFO had done everything possible to try to prevent a milk holding action but that, although processors now have a better attitude, it looked as though they would still be talking ten years from now with no higher prices for milk to the farmer unless a holding action is called."

They were also told that NFO is adding a new approach to its efforts to raise farm prices. It will offer farmers an opportunity to use marketing information and a structure offered by the NFO so the basic size of the agricultural plant can be reduced so supply can be brought in balance with demand.

The Morgan County NFO president explained, "No one should oppose this dynamic new approach. It is something farmers have always been told they should do. Now they can use NFO to reduce the size of the agricultural plant and bring supply in balance with demand."

Members attending from this county were Leonard Kramp, Edgar Robinson, Jr., Bernard Stenemeyer, Robert Foster, F. A. Johnson, Fred Heitbrink, Virgil Beauchamp, Loren Rhea, Lindell DeLong, Leroy Hammon, James Ludwig and Bernard Fromme.

Much Of The World's Hunger Is Termed Basically Theological

The cause of the world's hunger is basically theological, according to a leading U. S. theologian. Joseph L. Knutson, president of Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn., said recently that there is a food shortage for some people, not because there is a lack of knowledge, natural resources, or productive acres, but because of the way people believe, live, and act.

In addressing a joint meeting in Urbana of the Town and Country Church Institute and the Agricultural Industries Forum, Knutson said that religious ideas — not the population explosion — have made it almost impossible for the two largest nations (India and China) to meet their food demands.

India is presently America's chief concern as to food supply, he noted. In 1966, one-fourth of U.S. wheat went to India.

What Is Right?
In discussing the moral and ethical implications of the world food problem for U.S. agriculture, Knutson raised the issue of whether it is right to attempt to feed India. He pointed out that a high proportion of her people refuse to eat animal products or limit the large cattle population which competes for food supplies. And he noted that there is ineffective control of rats and other pests that destroy at least a fourth of the crops.

"The real justification for helping India is that she is victimized by her religion and culture," Knutson commented.

China, too, is a captive of her culture, he added. Confucianism made China worship the old and be suspicious of the new — a fact that accounts for the difference in Japan and China today.

Food For Peace
Knutson pointed out that the Food for Peace program is considered a questionable policy by some people and posed these questions concerning the program:
—Is it right to engage in a charity that is debilitating and crippling?
—Does the U.S. have the right to decide who shall be fed and who shall go hungry?
—Is the Food for Peace program creating an artificial market and an artificial economic order?
—Is it moral to use the resources of future generations by deteriorating U.S. soil through increased production on greater acreage?

And, is it right to depress the world market by giving aid to people who would otherwise be customers of other food-exporting nations?

"Our ethical and moral responsibility as a nation with abundance is not always clear," Knutson said. "And pure altruism is not possible. We often discipline and placate other nations for the welfare of free people everywhere — and we have often done this with food."

Bountiful Gifts
While America's materialism may be a fact and subject to criticism, no nation has ever given so generously and abundantly to help other nations, Knutson added. Our foreign aid with interest now totals about $150 billion. But the U.S. must follow aid

NFO President Addresses Morgan Meeting

Morgan County NFO enjoyed a dinner meeting at Hamilton's Restaurant in Jacksonville Tuesday evening.

Edgar Robinson, Jr., president, conducted the business meeting and announced the following meal board: Bernard Stenemeyer, Robert Foster, Arnold Thornley, Arvel Becker, Owen Heitbrink. Alternates: Amos Western, Donald Cully and Richard Langdon.

A ways and means committee of Albert Hermes, Dick Langdon and Owen Heitbrink was selected to formulate a money making project.

Leonard Kramp, state NFO president, reported on the recent meeting in Springfield concerning a new effort to raise farm prices. Details of this new approach offer farmers an opportunity to use marketing information and a structure offered by the NFO to reduce the basic size of agricultural output, so supply can be brought in balance with demand.

Kramp explained Viet Kids, an organization sponsored by chaplains of all faiths in Vietnam to obtain soap for war torn children of Vietnam.

Jim Sharpe, meat coordinator, gave a short talk on animal shipments from this area.

Three members from Cass county were guests, including Chairman Roscoe Morris.

with a demonstration of how it is to be effectively used, Knutson said. "We have to identify ourselves with the people of underdeveloped nations so that their problems become our problems. And this cannot be done by remote control."

This fact is why the Peace Corps is the best instrument the U.S. has to help underdeveloped nations, Knutson concluded.

Jacksonville Loses The University

Jacksonville -- and especially Jonathan Baldwin Turner and Editor G. Price Smith of the JOURNAL -- was disgusted a hundred years ago today.

What had been feared for a year was becoming a hard reality. The Illinois Industrial University was not going to be located in Jacksonville. It was going to Champaign, "in the wild lands along the eastern borders of the state."

Editor Smith wrote: "By reference to our special dispatch, received late last evening, it will be seen that the location of the Industrial University has been decided in favor of Champaign. Thus it will be seen that 'the d---d corruption money' voted by Champaign has had the desired effect, and that the magnificent offers of Jacksonville, Bloomington and Lincoln, have been laid on the table, while the petty bid of a wooden country town has worked wonders."

Particularly wounded was Prof. Turner, who had proposed in 1851 an industrial and agricultural college -- with a scientific department to train specialists; experimental farms and fields to determine the best techniques and practices, and an extension department to bring these results to every interested farmer in the state.

The Land Grant Act He developed a plan for building the universities throughout the nation with funds derived by the sale of federally-owned lands.

Turner spurred his friend, Representative Justin L. Morrill of Vermont, to introduce his plan to Congress in 1857, but it was turned down the next year, and also in 1860.

But Turner got a real ace in the hole in the summer of that year when two old friends, Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln, were the contenders for the Presidency. Both promised to help wherever they could, and the Land Grant University Act was signed by Lincoln July 2, 1862.

There are now more than 50 "Land Grant Colleges" in America. Due to the Civil War nothing was done about the proposal, but in 1865 the Illinois legislature approved a resolution calling for the establishment of a university under the provisions of the Land Grant Act.

Desired By All Then everybody got into the act, with every crossroads settlement offering itself as just the right location for the new university.

This was nothing new in Illinois boosterism. "In the 1830's," Julian Sturtevant, president of Illinois College, wrote later, "the mania for college building was the combined result of the prevalent speculation in land and the zeal for denominational aggrandizement. . . . It was generally believed that one of the surest ways to promote the growth of a young city was to make it the seat of a college."

It had certainly worked for Jacksonville, for after Illinois College was established came the Presbyterian and Methodist Female Academies, and with them the Central Insane Asylum, and the Schools for the Deaf, for the Blind and for the Idiots and Imbeciles. The town had practically everything within the power of the Legislature to give it, and most all communities envied it, but our boosters decided that the new University must be established here.

And did they go to work on the proposition! They never had a chance, but they did make the best and highest bid.

What Happened The story is wonderfully, concisely told by Dr. Daniel J. Boorstin, now head of the history department of the University of Chicago:

"The lore of the West is full of the bitter rivalries of enterprising early settlers for a government handout to their community. Contests were none the less bitter because the competing towns were often figments of imagination. Booster optimists were ready to believe that the government prize itself would give reality and prosperity to their illusions; every state institution meant buildings to be built, people to be employed, food, clothing, and services to be bought. It meant clients for lawyers, patients for the doctors, customers for the shops, guests for the taverns and hotels."

"Above all it meant increased population with the increased land values that always came along."

"Some of the better documented stories involved the railroads, for they had big money to spend on a lively contest. The scramble for the location of the University of Illinois is a good example. Under the Morrill Act of 1862, the new university would receive a large grant of federal land; it would also be permanently supported by the state. Intense rivalry finally led the state legislature to pass an act permitting interested communities to submit bids.

"The promoters of four towns -- Jacksonville, Bloomington, Lincoln, and Champaign -- offered money, land, commodities, and then used every other kind of influence. Champaign had the advantage of the leadership of C. R. Griggs, a seasoned lobbyist and member of the state legislature. He was shrewd enough to raise a large sum, not for the official bid, but to finance the good-will of the politicians who would award the prize. Then he toured the state to see that the money was effectively distributed, and, despite the threat of an investigation, he continued his activities after the legislature went into session."

"The foremost crer for Griggs' blood was Col. Smith of the JOURNAL, who pointed with both alarm and shame at the morals and influence of the lobbyist. What particularly put the Col. on the warpath was Griggs' opening of 'reception rooms' on the first floor of the newly completed Leland hotel in Springfield. There legislators and political hacks of both parties called to receive expensive presents, non-recourse personal loans, 'and to partake of oysters and champagne amongst the companionship of amiable females in lavish dress.'"

Now let's go back to Boorstin: "The Illinois Central Railroad, which already ran through Champaign, was naturally interested in seeing the University there. It had there a large grant of land, much of it still unsold, it owned many town lots and its would obviously profit from increased freight and passenger traffic. Therefore, it offered $50,000 in freight transportation as part of Champaign's bid, which altogether came to about $285,000. This bid, was exceeded by those of the three other leading contenders: Lincoln offered $385,000; Bloomington, $470,000 (which included $50,000 from the Chicago & Alton Railroad, which was competing with the Illinois Central); and Jacksonville, $491,000."

"But Griggs had put his money in the right places, preferring to line the pockets of legislators and political bosses instead of needlessly inflating the public bid. His shrewdness was rewarded on February 28, 1867, when after much slander and contention, an act located the university at Champaign. The investment by the Illinois Central Railroad and by local boosters was speedily repaid with dividends. In 1870 Champaign-Urbana had already become the most populous town south of Chicago on the branch line, and real estate there was booming."

Low Bidder Wins And J. B. Turner fumed that it was "the first time in history that a valuable property was knocked off to the lowest bidder."

But in time he cooled off and was the dedicatory speaker when the cornerstone of the first main building of the new university was laid in 1870. We all know now that the university should have gone to Lincoln, just a few miles north of the center of the state and itself in the center of fabulous farm land.

Within a short time the Legislature placated Bloomington by locating the Soldiers' & Sailors' Orphanage there and a few years later when the highly successful School for Idiots and Imbeciles outgrew its quarters here it was renamed the Illinois State School and Colony and moved to Lincoln.

Jacksonville was shooting for a much greater plum than its boosters realized, or could have dreamed of, for today the University is the heartbeat of Champaign-Urbana. A few years ago the Chamber of Commerce estimated its annual worth to the community was just a trifle short of $500,000,000 annually.

But now the Twin Cities are complaining that Chicago Circle is getting the lion's share of the biennial appropriations and federal grants.

Which just goes to show that you can't please anybody much, for very long. -- Cecil Tendick

FOREIGN

February, 1867

The director of the Paris Hippodrome brought a suit for damages against a Spanish breeder of bulls, with whom he had contracted for a supply of these animals for bull-fights, on the grounds that the bulls, instead of being fierce, were the most cowardly and calf-like animals. So far from dashing savagely at the horsemen, making the spectators tremble for their safety, they would meekly lie down and chew the cud, and when turned out of the arena, would gather about the gate and low gently and beseechingly to be allowed to return, thus exciting the derision of the assembly. The defense put up was that their spirit was broken by traveling on the railroad, and the jury found the defense sufficient.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

Who shall be the first Mayor of Jacksonville, is just now the exciting theme in radical circles. The JOURNAL proposes to leave the vexed question as to who is the noblest among the nobler, to the decision of a convention. We have heard Prof. Sanders suggested as the very man to fill the JOURNAL'S bill, but other prominent lights are also suggested, including Col. Smith, J. W. King, John Mathers, I. L. Morrison, M. P. Ayers, and others of less radical note.

The raging Mauvaisterre got on a high bender during the recent rain, sweeping away fencing and bridges with relentless force. The bridge on the Morton road was carried off, and it is reported that the bridge on the Bethel road is also gone. The usually quiet little stream evidently became afflicted with a state of radicalism.

Joe Scofield has bought out Kelley's billiard room and a saloon, on east Court street. His free lunch on Saturday last was liberally patronized.

Dr. Dietrick, formerly of Concord, has bought property and located in Jacksonville.

The owners of the Illinois River railroad have decided that concern to the Peoria, Pekin and Jacksonville Railroad Company.

The location of the Industrial University has been made at Champaign, by a vote of 68 to 10.

The contested election case is yet dragging its slow length along. We learn that the evidence tends to prove some 30 to 40 illegal votes cast for Moore. The testimony to prove illegal votes cast for Mayfield is now being taken.

Mrs. Mary A. Flowers, the noted Fortune Teller, is now stopping at Mrs. Sinclair's, west Court street.

The Carrollton Democrat has ceased to exist. It is being removed to Whitehall, where we bespeak for it better success.

Notwithstanding the exceeding bad weather, we are informed that the gross receipts of the M. E. Church foot up $456.

The patience of our people was severely tried last week and this, by the caving in of the banks at the Plaza, and some other deep cuts along the railroad, greatly to our annoyance. There seems to have been a fault of engineering in that quarter and the company has paid dearly for it.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian: GRAPEVINE TELEGRAPH-- We are born crying, live complaining, and die disappointed. Blessed is the man that preaches a short sermon, for his hearers will come again.

It is better for a young man to be kicked out of doors than to have a rich uncle.

For drunkenness, drink cold water; for health, rise early; to be happy, be honest; to please all, mind your own business.

Weather still very cold for this season of the year.

A press club has been formed in this city, and have elected Lierace Greeley president. A similar association is proposed in London, the object there being to combine for the purpose of defending each other from suits for libel. Is there any necessity for the New York Press Club to contemplate such an object among their other purposes?

The system of cheap books seems to have been transferred from here to England. The latest success there is the publication of Cooper's novels at sixpence a volume, each volume containing a novel complete.

The Cornell College has commenced to organize for active work. The trustees, at a recent meeting, appointed William C. Russell, Esq., Professor of Modern Languages. The appointment is a good one, and sustains the reputation of the trustees for a desire to make the college really worthy of the enlightened public spirit shown by the founder.

Now that spring seems to be coming, the Committee of Investigation are examining into the mismanagement of the ferries during the recent cold weather. The result will be a great deal of talk, nothing definite resolved on, and during the mild weather the whole thing will be forgotten until the next cold winter brings it up again.

The power generated by four tons of coal is estimated to be equal to that exercised by an able-bodied man in twenty years of hard work.

At a recent matinee, at Mason's Hall, on Broadway, an attraction not on the bills excited considerable attention. Two gentlemen, (q.e.d.) commenced a fistfight, which was transferred from the hall to the sidewalk, and ended in their being both arrested and carried to the police-station, when one brought a charge against the other, of having insulted some ladies, and the other brought a charge against the first, of threatening to draw a pistol. It would seem as though the concord of sweet sounds are not always as efficacious as the poets suppose in producing the blessings of harmony.

Crimsons Hold On For 59-52 Victory

SPRINGFIELD — Jacksonville kept its hopes for a share of the Capital Conference title alive by posting a 59-52 decision over Lanphier here Friday evening.

The Crimsons could not stand prosperity as they lost ten-point leads on two different occasions and had to battle off the determined hosts throughout the contest until the final minute.

Duane Hess and Abe Brown led the Jacks' scoring attack, while Rich had his best night of the season with ten markers for the Crimson cause. Brown canned six baskets in the first half as Jacksonville rambled to a ten-point halftime spread.

Late in the game it was Hess' turn to hit three crucial field goals to keep the Crimsons on top of a narrow margin.

Twice JHS lost good leads, initially in the first frame, when they eased from the first six minutes to a 19-9 edge only to see the Lions hit the last three points in the period and the first four in the second stanza to get within five.

Jacks Fall Cold
The Crimsons could manage only one field goal and three charity throws in the first six minutes of the chapter and Lanphier got within two at 24-22 before a late Jack surge gave the visitors a ten-point edge once again.

Coble got the last two Crimsons buckets for the period in the final half-minute, including a 30-foot desperation throw at the buzzer.

A seven-point third quarter was almost the Crimsons' downfall as the Lions grabbed the lead for the first time with a minute remaining on Jim Zimmerman's free throw, but two of the same from Hess with 0:18 showing gave Jacksonville the lead at the stop.

Lions Charge Again
The final frame started out in similar fashion as a Brown bucket was the lone Jack effort for two minutes, and Lanphier knotted the count again at 43-41 with 6:30 to play. Brown, Manker, and Duane Mounts came through in the next two minutes, though, and the Crimsons edged to a 49-43 advantage.

Charles White was the Jacks' nemesis on the boards as the Crimsons, despite being the taller club, could not contain the jumping Jack, and Lanphier posted a 15-rebound edge including a 16-4 spread in the third quarter.

Balanced Attack
Hess' 17 points was high effort for Jacksonville, and Brown had 16 to support, while Coble and Robin Manker each wound up with ten markers. Mounts, suffering through a cold evening, had six to round out Crimsons tallying. White, with 17, and Rich Schultz, with 12, were in double figures for the Lions.

MILLIKIN KEEPS

Charity Throws Preserve 60-58 Win By Wolves

HARDIN — John Franklin and Steve Suhling each hit two charity tosses in the final 30 seconds to preserve Pleasant Hill's 60-58 Illinois Valley Conference upset victory over Calhoun, here Friday night.

The eventual winners trailed 15-10 and 31-24 at the first two breaks, but ripped off 12 straight points in the third to draw within a 44-44 deadlock entering the final eight minutes. Pleasant Hill then opened up a five-point lead and the final free ones settled the outcome.

The victory moves the Wolves to 7-13 and 2-3, and drops Calhoun to 15-7 and 3-3.

Trojans Stave Off Second-Half Threat

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Triopia blew all but two points of a 13-0 lead but still had enough poise at the end to put down a Routt upset effort and cop a 51-46 PMSC Conference victory that assures the Trojans of their seventh loop crown in eight years, at the Routt gym Friday evening.

The Trojans broke to the 13-0 lead with Routt missing their first 14 shots and five free tosses, but had to put down repeated Rocket threats in the second half.

Routt, riding the hot shooting of Chuck McNeely and the rebounding of Dick Zeller, got within two points in the final period, and had three chances to tie. Turnovers at this point and later in the game with the Rockets trailing by three killed the hosts' chances.

The victory leaves Triopia with a final 7-0 mark in the conference and an 18-3 overall mark. Routt, playing at home for the final time this season, drops to 6-13 on the campaign.

Bill Meier and Jim Kleinschmidt almost single-handedly killed the Rocket surge in the closing minutes. After Dan Welsh hit a 20-footer to open the fourth period to bring Routt within 41-39, Meier hit a tip in bucket, added two free tosses 20 seconds later and Kleinschmidt swished a 15-footer to up the difference to 47-39 with only 2:33 showing.

Put Down Rally
Zeller tipped in a bucket with 2:21 left but Kleinschmidt sealed the verdict with a short jumper with 2:11 remaining. Ken McGinnis and Dave Ryan combined for five points in the next minute to cut the gap to 49-46, but Harlan Fricke calmly hit both ends of a one-and-one situation with nine seconds to play to ice the contest.

Routt didn't get on the scoreboard until Zeller hit two free ones with 1:24 left in the opening period and Triopia leading 13-0. McNeely, who missed his first six shots, got the hosts' first field goal with :50 left as Triopia led 15-4 after eight minutes.

Behind McNeely Routt within six, 27-21, at intermission, and cut the gap to four early in the third and finally to three, 40-37, at the close of the third.

Routt, 1-5 in the first period, raised its shooting rate to 33%, while Triopia, seven of 12 in the first eight minutes, fell off to 37%. Routt outscored the winners 39-31, 17-8 offensively, but had 15 turnovers to Triopia's six.

76ers Red - Hot

The 76ers, who now lead the NBA's Eastern Division by 7½ games, won the division title a year ago, then lost in the playoffs to the Boston Celtics 4-1 in a best-of-seven set. With a current record of 54-10 and 17 games remaining they appear a cinch to take their second straight division crown.

Obviously determined to head off any dissension or criticism of Chamberlain, Hannum has taken the bold step of giving his star 7-foot-1 center special treatment. Speaking of Chamberlain, the 76ers' coach said:

"He is an exceptional person and an exceptional athlete and therefore he needs exceptional treatment."

"People close to the team now realize what I'm doing. What I'm trying to do, otherwise, is to prevent some other writer or visitor from coming to a practice and seeing that Wilt isn't there, trying to make it sound like he's disobeying orders."

Hannum said other team members, especially veterans, might feel Chamberlain is not entitled to such treatment. But he pointed out they realize that a healthy and mentally refreshed Wilt is necessary for the 76ers to win in the East and go on to the NBA title.

When Bret Hanover, now retired to Stud, was voted Harness Horse of 1966 he became the only three-time winner of the award.

The University of Vermont football team set a school record last season by scoring 200 points in eight games.

Hannum Excuses Wilt From Some 76er Practices

CLEVELAND (AP) — A memo to the press from Coach Al Hannum of the Philadelphia 76ers.

"If you come to practice and don't spot Wilt Chamberlain there, don't run to your typewriter and write those dissension stories. Wilt has permission not to be there."

Hannum, whose 76ers were here Friday night for a game with the Cincinnati Royals, apparently is seeking to avoid the dissension that resulted last year when Wilt failed to show for several practices at the end of the season.

Hannum said Chamberlain's presence at practice is not mandatory. "If I think Wilt's presence is needed at practice I'll tell him to be there, and he'll be there. Other times he'll be excused or at least I'll leave it to him whether to attend."

Chamberlain's missed practice sessions before last season's National Basketball Association playoffs were listed in some areas as one of the reasons the team entered the playoffs a disorganized, unprepared team with some signs of dissension.

The 76ers, who now lead the NBA's Eastern Division by 7½ games, won the division title a year ago, then lost in the playoffs to the Boston Celtics 4-1 in a best-of-seven set. With a current record of 54-10 and 17 games remaining they appear a cinch to take their second straight division crown.

Obviously determined to head off any dissension or criticism of Chamberlain, Hannum has taken the bold step of giving his star 7-foot-1 center special treatment. Speaking of Chamberlain, the 76ers' coach said:

"He is an exceptional person and an exceptional athlete and therefore he needs exceptional treatment."

"People close to the team now realize what I'm doing. What I'm trying to do, otherwise, is to prevent some other writer or visitor from coming to a practice and seeing that Wilt isn't there, trying to make it sound like he's disobeying orders."
